

Gem skipped for N-wastes

By FRED DODDS
Times News writer

TWIN FALLS — Radioactive wastes apparently will not be buried in Idaho.

The U.S. government's decision to eliminate the Gem State from waste disposal lists comes from two quarters, according to James A. Griffin, an official with the Energy Research and Development Administration.

First, the lava rock and sandy soil surrounding the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, near Arco, "would not hold the radioactive waste."

Second, a committee appointed by Gov. Cecil Andrus recommended against any radioactive waste burial in Idaho.

That was in 1974, although Gov. Andrus said he would consider appointing a new committee if a sound plan is developed to bury the wastes.

Dick Blackledge of ERDA's office in Idaho Falls confirmed Griffin's statement and noted the plan to bury radioactive wastes is a nationwide effort with 13 states being studied at the present time. The states are Colorado, Indiana, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Nevada, New York, Ohio, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Washington.

According to ERDA, these states are "high potential" states, meaning they have the proper ground base to bury radioactive materials.

Griffin also said much of the material could be recycled.

He said this means a storage facility could be built for about $200 million, and wastes processed there and only a portion of those wastes buried in caverns up to half a mile underground.

Idaho does have a strip of Rhyolite base, the kind of ground needed to bury safely any radioactive material. But the strip is north of Arco, along the Montana border where the terrain is so rugged burial or even building a burial plant would "be out of the question."

The study may be expanded to 36 of the 48 contiguous states sometime, but at the present there are no plans to build plants and store radioactive waste materials in Idaho.

Griffin said wastes now buried near Arco will be moved and buried in future depositories, when and if "the sites are selected and built."

He said the decision to move or bury wastes "will not be unilateral ones by the federal government."

Congressmen will be contacted and committees from individual communities will be heard before any decision is made by ERDA officials.

Any decision made by ERDA is subject to review by Congress, and the President of the United States.

Six repositories costing about $300 million each and with tunnels thousands of feet into the ground are being considered.

Gem budget requests up 15% for '78

By BILL LAZARUS
Times News writer

TWIN FALLS — State agencies have requested 15.2 per cent more money out of the state's general fund for fiscal 1978 than budgeted for this year, according to figures from the Legislative Fiscal Office.

That stands well above the rate of inflation which has been about 5.3 per cent.

It also stands well above the budget Gov. Cecil D. Andrus is likely to recommend, according to Larry Seale, chief of the Governor's Division of Budget, Policy Planning and Coordination.

Seale this morning said "Andrus' budget proposals, given in the first week of the legislature, will 'definitely be lower' than the requests by state agencies."

"The increases in revenue next year is not going to be substantial at all in the past number of years," Seale said, noting particularly the increase in the agricultural economy.

If the trend of past years continues, Idaho's Republican-dominated legislature will further whittle down Andrus' funding requests.

Even at 15.2 per cent up from current spending, the state agencies' requests are moderate compared to years past. In fact, the total budget request at $220 million is slightly lower than the agencies' request for 1977. This year's general fund budget is $253 million.

The general fund budget is generated from state tax income.

The biggest chunk of the 1977 budget will go toward education. The Department of Education has asked for $198.4 million, up 14.9 per cent from its current general fund appropriation of $172.6 million.

According to Sandra Watkins, administrative assistant to State Rep. Roy Truby, the proposed budget would allow for very little expansion. She said the department has asked for $21 million for extending special education as mandated by state law.

She said the proposed budget provides for 27,000 projected increased enrollment in grades 1-12 and 526,000 projected increased enrollment in grades 1-12 and 526,000 projected increased enrollment in kindergartens.

Watkinson said the department projects an 11.5 per cent total budget increase if it gets the requested 14.9 per cent boost in state funding. Smaller increases in federal and other funding would keep down the total money available to the department, she maintained.

Within education's general proposal, the public schools have asked for a 13.3 per cent increase, colleges and universities a 11 per cent increase and junior colleges a 22 per cent increase over current appropriations, according to figures from the Legislative Fiscal Office.

The State Department of Health and Welfare, which takes up the second largest portion of the general fund, is asking for $48.5 million in fiscal 1978, up 16 per cent from its current appropriation, but far below its budget request of $56 million last year.

According to Gordon Fisher, an analyst who studies the HAW budget for the Legislative Fiscal Office, the HAW proposal would allow "not too much expansion." He said federal matching funds for welfare and medical will drop since personal income has risen in the state. Part of the HAW proposal, he said, is to make up for this drop.

Feds reject airbag rule

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation Secretary William Coleman today rejected proposals to require air bags in cars, he suggested instead a two-year demonstration project beginning in 1978 and affecting only a relatively small number of cars.

Coleman said he was convinced that the use of air bags is a good idea, but he feared the public would reject the concept if it were forced on the consumer.

"I believe that a demonstration program will increase significantly the chance that passive restraints will ultimately prove acceptable and I am convinced that their potential safety benefits warrant this action."

Coleman proposed that at least two automobile manufacturers sign contracts with the government under which they will offer for sale beginning in September, 1978, a combined total of 500,000 air-bag equipped cars, 250,000 to be available in each of the two years.

That compares to sales for 1976 of 10 million automobiles.

One half of the cars in the demonstration project would be equipped with air bags that would deploy in the event of a crash across the entire front seat, at a cost which Coleman said should not exceed $100. The other half would have air bags only on the driver's side, at a projected cost of $50.

Court orders halt to Texas execution today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today blocked the Texas execution planned Friday for Robert Excell White, who along with Gary Gilmore in Utah wants to be the first person in nearly a decade to be put to legal death in this country.

Over the dissent of Justice William H. Rehnquist, who would let White keep his date with the electric chair, the high court postponed execution indefinitely while White's lawyers present a formal high court appeal of his case.

White wrote the justices nearly two weeks ago asking them to ignore the lawyers and allow his execution to take place as scheduled.

Gilmore, who also has expressed the wish to die, was in his Utah prison cell today. The Supreme Court acted Friday to block his execution, planned for this morning, while the court takes more time to consider his case.

Utah was told to submit its arguments by 3 p.m. MST Tuesday on why Gilmore should be allowed to die as he wishes.

Today, Gilmore pleaded with his mother to stop her appeal to the Supreme Court.

In an unrelated death penalty development, the justices reaffirmed, over three dissents, that courts must be especially careful in capital cases to ensure that jurors who merely voice general reservations against the death penalty are not therefore excluded from hearing a case.

The decision, which overturned the death penalty of a Georgia murderer, was a followup to a 1968 ruling. The court held then that potential jurors must be carefully questioned to determine if their reservations about the death penalty are so strong they cannot objectively vote the death penalty even if the proven facts showed death was required.

Today, the court ruled improper exclusion of even a single juror without thorough questioning is enough to overturn a subsequent death sentence.

In other action today, the justices: —Told a lower court to look more thoroughly into why Austin, Tex., schools are racially segregated. Three justices said the mere fact there is racial disparity doesn't necessarily mean courts can order extensive busing. The segregation must be the result of "intended government action."

—Agreed to review reapportionment problems in Texas and South Carolina. Texas claims the Justice Department and the Census Bureau improperly counted illegal aliens in determining the state's registration of eligible voters was so low it comes under the Voting Rights Act. The South Carolina case was brought by black voters contending the reapportionment plan for the state senate is discriminatory.

—Ruled unanimously that independent voters have no constitutional right to participate in primary elections.

—Agreed to decide whether "pandering" can be a factor in an obscenity case when the defendant wasn't shown to have commercially exploited pornography but gave it to a policeman only after the officer asked for it several times.

Carter votes for brother

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter voted for his brother Jimmy for mayor of Plains today and Billy said he hoped it would "rain like hell" because the beer drinkers would still vote for him.

Billy voted after other members of the Carter family and held court afterwards, promising to take down the plastic Christmas tree in the small town's park, to appoint only friends — "not the best person" — to town offices, and to keep Plains out of state and national business.

Strikes cut Paris power, transit

PARIS (UPI) — Power cuts struck sectors of Paris today and the city subway came to a halt for an hour in strikes by leftist labor unions protesting the government's handling of a press dispute.

Gas, electricity and transport workers staged sporadic walkouts across France in solidarity with striking printers. The printers struck to protest a police eviction Sunday of workers who have been staging a sitdown in the printing plant of the daily Parisien Libere for the past 21 months.

More violence flares in S. Africa

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Riot police today shot and wounded at least 12 blacks today in a segregated township during a new flareup of violence that authorities said became an intertribal brawl involving thousands of persons.

About 20 houses were burned down, but police said there were no fatalities. Repeated bursts of gunfire cracked across the suburb. Reporters who toured the scene afterward said it resembled a battlefield.

Hostility erupts in Rhodesia talks

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Blacks and whites at the Rhodesia Conference bitterly accused each other today of responsibility for the ambush slayings in northwestern Rhodesia of three Roman Catholic missionaries — including a bishop and a nun.

CIA study confirms world cooling trend

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times News writer

Since the 1860s, a number of forecasting climatic conditions have appeared in various meteorological and geological periodicals.

The predictions generally followed one of two themes. The first suggested a global climatic change was underway. The second said this change would create worldwide agricultural failures beginning in the 1970s.

Most meteorologists agreed against these predictions, saying there was no justification for them. The climatologists who argued for them could not provide explanations for their theories.

Then, early in the 1970s, a series of adverse climatic anomalies occurred throughout the world.

—In the Arctic area Greenland, below normal temperatures were recorded for 19 months in a row. Nothing like this had happened in the last 100 years.

—The world's snow and ice cover seemed to have increased by about 10 to 15 per cent.

—The Moscow region in the Soviet Union suffered its worst drought in 300 to 500 years.

—Drought occurred in Central America, the sub-capitals in the Sahara, South Asia, China and Australia.

—Floods occurred in the midwestern United States.

To many, these natural events were unrelated anomalies and represented no logical pattern in the global weather trend.

Others disagreed.

A study prepared for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in 1974 and only released to the public this year concluded climatological research throughout the country determined studies by the most respected institutions in the field, specifically "work done at the University of Wisconsin, showed there might well be some over-riding pattern to the strange weather the world is experiencing.

The CIA report focused on the work of climatologists who say a global climatic change is occurring and returning the world to much cooler weather.

The CIA study can't be taken as gospel.

The CIA is the first to say that it is the work of a single author, looking into the situation for the agency and can't be taken to be accurate.

The CIA claims the study is just one of many "working papers" prepared for the agency and therefore, "should not be taken as necessarily representing the official position, either expressed or implied, of the CIA."

World in cooling trend, CIA weather papers claim

But, having put the study into this perspective, the outcome of it still stands. After looking at the work of climatologists throughout the country, the CIA researcher concluded that indeed, a worldwide climatic change was happening and it was returning the earth to a much cooler period of weather.

Climate — the study of long-range trends in weather — is still a relative inexact science.

Researchers have been unable to present indisputable evidence for their theories. The CIA study, however, are three basic schools of thought of climatology.

The first, called the Lam-bian School after its primary researcher Prof. H.H. Lamb, is based on the establishment of climatic trends ranging back to 1000 A.D. and are determined through the reading of certain geophysical indicators, such as tree rings, sediment deposits and Arctic readings.

The second, named after Dr. Joseph Shapirinsky, believes forecasts can be successfully through models describing large scale atmospheric — and motion tables. The third, represented by the work of a Soviet climatologist, Dr. M. I. Budyko, holds that all atmospheric motions — are dependent on the total distribution of thermal energy and climatic forecasting can be accomplished through an understanding of this distribution.

According to the CIA study then, the University of Wisconsin was the first accredited academic institution to forecast that a major global climatic change was underway.

The Wisconsin study looked into isotopic temperature data, which they contended has historically been an indicator of northern hemisphere climatic conditions — and concluded the world was growing colder and returning to a climate similar to that which prevailed 200 to 300 years ago.

An explanation for past climatic changes and for the present change predicted by the Wisconsin group may have been provided last week when three scientists announced the results of their work making climatic changes with the accuracy of the earth's orbit.

The Wisconsin researchers observed the climate we have enjoyed in recent decades was unusually warm and extremely favorable for farming. They suggest — from their research — that the world was returning to a climate which existed from the 1600's to the 1850's and was called the neoboreal era or "the little ice age."

The CIA study suggests that a political, economic and agricultural history of the 17th, 18th and beginning of the 19th centuries is, as the author believes, related to the climate, then the consequences of a return to a neoboreal climate could be considerable, and perhaps deadly if not prepared for.

The CIA study points out that a neoboreal climate is not as conducive to optimum crop production as the warmer climate of recent decades. The CIA study further points out that during the last neoboreal era great segments of the world population were decimated by the great plagues of Europe, India, Africa and Russia, which may have been a result of starvation and malnutrition during a period of crop failure.

"If 50 percent most of the world suffered major economic and political unrest, which could be directly or indirectly linked to the climate of the neoboreal era," the CIA study says.

"The great potato famine of 1845 in Ireland" was the last gasp of the "little ice age." Yet for every death in Ireland there were 10 in the Asian countries."

Based on the Wisconsin study, the CIA report suggests that a return to a neoboreal climate today would mean the loss of vast grain producing areas in Canada and the Soviet Union, declines in northern Europe, major droughts every four years in India and a major famine every five years in China.

Such a change would have major farming and economic problems. The Wisconsin study even questioned whether a return to neoboreal climate conditions would allow the world's farms to produce enough food to support a world population that grew from 1.1 billion in 1850 to 3.75 billion in 1970.

In 1974 world grain reserves amounted to less than a month, and any delay in available food supplies could quickly lead to mass starvation, according to the CIA study.

If the Wisconsin group's study is correct, the world could not produce enough food to support its population since technology offers no solutions during the study.

Here is where such events as the weather fall into the domain of the countries' intelligence communities. What would happen if the climate does return to a neoboreal era and foreboding predictions of the CIA study come true?

Moderation seen at OPEC meet

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Moderation will prevail at the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries price-fixing meeting next week, with delegates ordering a "maximum" price increase of 10 percent, the Middle East Economic Survey said today.

The authoritative oil weekly said the OPEC oil ministers were reconsidering their earlier decision to postpone the meeting and the conference will "most probably be held on Dec. 15 as originally planned" in the oil sheikhdom of Qatar.

"Moderation is likely to prevail on the OPEC price front despite the postponement of the (North-South) dialogue conference," the survey said.

It said Saudi Arabia, economically the most powerful OPEC member, was standing fast in its original demand for a minimum price increase, "which by all accounts would put the maximum ceiling for any increase at 10 percent or quite possibly somewhat less."

OPEC had postponed the date of the Paris conference to Dec. 20 to leave plenty of time for the oil producers to judge the outcome of the north-south meeting between industrialized nations and Third World countries which was scheduled to hold its first session in mid-December. Some OPEC members said a "yes" outcome at the Paris talks — with broad concessions from the industrialized countries to the Third World — would influence the oil states toward a smaller price increase.

But the north-south meeting has been postponed until next year, prompting the OPEC countries to move their meeting date back to Dec. 15.

The survey said OPEC's second-largest producer, Iran, had shown "signs of moderation" with indications that its proposal for a 15 percent price rise was merely an opening demand and the Shah was ready to accept less.

"As far as the dialogue is concerned, the Saudis evidently want to keep their power — and their instruments of pressure — dry until next year, when the position of the new U.S. administration as well as the progress of world economic recovery will become clearer," the survey said.

Snow, cold grip central regions

By United Press International
Snows set the Christmas season mood over much of the midlands today but an arctic chill slowed Christmas tree harvests — and threatened to make it a treeless Yuletide for some tree seekers.

A late autumn storm slashed across the plains and the Midwest, piling deep snows, covering roads with snow and ice and making travel treacherous in more than a dozen states.

Frigid weather leading the storm's onslaught sent temperatures to near the zero mark in wide areas.

In western Pennsylvania, in the throes of its longest cold snap in history, tree growers reported arctic conditions may cause a shortage of Christmas trees.

"We definitely won't be able to supply all orders this year as we normally do," said Fred Musser, operator of one of the nation's largest "tree plantations" at Indiana. "Tree plantations" which normally reach their destinations by Dec. 15 would start late and continue until Christmas Eve.

Snow fell over the northern half of the Great Plains and stretched into portions of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Michigan early today.

Three inches of new snow fell in the Iowa communities of Mason City, Sioux City and Spencer by Sunday night. The South Dakota towns of Huron, Aberdeen and Watervale each reported two inches of fresh snow, and one inch snowfalls were widespread through Nebraska and Minnesota. Moline, Ill., also reported an inch of fresh snow.

The Iowa Highway Patrol reported roads were 50 to 100 per cent snow or ice covered over most of the state, with the exception of some southern areas. Nebraska authorities reported hazardous driving conditions statewide because of falling and blowing snow.

Winter storm watches or warnings or travelers' advisories were posted for 13 states.

Heavy snow warnings were in effect today for portions of Colorado, Nebraska, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Michigan, where at least four inches of fresh snow were forecast for those areas today. A winter storm watch was posted for northern Ohio.

Up to four inches of fresh snow was forecast today for the Chicago area, where several inches of snow lingers from a late November snowfall.

Travelers' advisories were in effect in portions of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin.

In 1917, a total of 1,600 persons were killed when a Belgian relief ship and a French munitions vessel collided and exploded in the harbor at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

In 1923, Americans crowded into liquor stores, bars and cafes to buy their first legal alcoholic beverages in 13 years.

In 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt sent a message to Japanese Premier Hirohito expressing hope that gathering war clouds would be dispelled. Japan attacked Pearl Harbor the following day.

In 1975, the U.S. Senate authorized a $2.3 billion emergency loan to save New York City from default.

A thought for the day: President Franklin Delano Roosevelt said, "We, too, born to freedom and believing in freedom, are willing to maintain freedom."

If I should have any checks outstanding at the time of my death, would the bank automatically stop payment on them?

Answer . .

For ten days after your bank has knowledge of your death, they may continue to pay checks drawn by you prior to that date, unless ordered to stop payment by a person claiming interest in the account.

Banks in Magic Valley usually acquire knowledge of the death of a depositor through the newspaper obituary columns. Those columns are dated, checks, therefore, may be paid by the bank for ten days after the first publication of the announcement of a death unless payment is stopped sooner.

Carter eyes 'Gate figure

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter is considering John Doar, chief counsel for the Nixon impeachment inquiry, to be his attorney general, according to a top aide.

Hamilton Jordan, Carter's chief talent scout, confirmed that Doar is being considered, and also told reporters Rep. Robert Bergland, D-Minn., is on the list for consideration as secretary of agriculture.

Carter planned an early morning trip to the polls today to vote in the Plains municipal election for his brother Billy, who is running for mayor against the incumbent A.L. Blanton, an air controller and part-time barber.

The President-elect continued in a slow methodical manner to select a compatible team to serve with him over the next four years.

Jordan flew here Sunday to brief Carter on some 70 potential candidates for the cabinet and other major positions in his administration. He confirmed reports that Doar and Bergland were among them.

Doar, 55, a New York attorney, was counsel to the House Judiciary Committee for its impeachment investigation of Richard Nixon. He also served as assistant attorney general in charge of the Civil Rights Division in the Johnson administration, and held positions in the Justice Department in the Eisenhower and Kennedy eras.

Bergland is a friend and political protégé of Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey and Walter Mondale, the vice president-elect.

In another area, Carter told reporters his legal staff is reviewing the possibility of expanding his forthcoming pardon of Vietnam draft evaders to include other war resisters.

"We're trying to decide how to word the pardon," he said in a brief chat outside the Plains Baptist Church Sunday. "It's going to be done the first week I'm in office, but the different categories of violators is something we're assessing now. I don't know."

Carter's close adviser Charles Kirbo heads a team of lawyers, preparing recommendations which the President-elect hopes to receive in a week or 10 days, an aide said.

With the selection of his cabinet expected to be completed by Christmas, Carter and his "speechwriters" also planned to begin work soon on his inaugural address.

Carter plans to fly to Washington Wednesday afternoon for a two-day round of meetings with transition aides, members of Congress, business leaders and Pentagon policy planners.

On Sunday, Carter taught his Bible class for the first time since the election. He said he intends to worship at the nearest Baptist Church in Washington instead of moving in "famous preachers" to hold services in the White House.

Ford orders ceremonial welcome for Italian aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, ending a month in near seclusion, ordered a full ceremonial welcome today for Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti, his first meeting with a major foreign leader since he lost his bid to stay on at the White House.

Ford was to meet Andreotti on the White House lawn, and scheduled a state dinner tonight after conferences with the visitor in the Oval Office. Officials said the talks would focus on Italy's severe economic troubles, and Communist political power there.

In advance of his arrival, the White House said only that Andreotti was making an official two-day visit at Ford's invitation and that he would confer with other top administration officials on "bilateral and multilateral issues of mutual interest."

Communists won more than a third of the vote last June in elections, leaving Italy with a fragile minority government under Andreotti's Christian Democratic party.

With economic conditions steadily worsening, Italy's foreign currency reserves slipped recently to about $13 billion and the International Monetary Fund has been considering a loan of up to $1 billion.

Ford also scheduled meetings today with Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson to receive a report on his mission to earthquake-stricken Turkey, and with budget advisors who are helping Ford prepare the 1978 fiscal budget he must submit in January.

The traditional salute set for Andreotti's arrival was the first major ceremonial event planned at the White House since Ford began holding an intensely private schedule after his narrow loss to Jimmy Carter Nov. 2.

Ford's public appearances during the past month were so limited that his press secretary was moved to assure reporters that the President was not turning into "a recluse."

But Ford also made two public appearances over the weekend, first on Friday night when he took his wife Betty to a fund-raising dinner for the National Symphony.

Sunday, Ford attended church services at the Washington National Cathedral with Chicago insurance magnate W. Clement Stone.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Less than half a mile of pipe remains to be installed to complete the 800-mile trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

The Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., the consortium setting up the system, said during the weekend that work is continuing on two small sections of pipe at either end of the rugged route, which stretches from the Arctic North Slope to the ice-free port of Valdez.

REP. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., said Sunday published reports he has diverted campaign funds to personal use were part of a "hatchet job" by the press media on "anyone who is friendly with South Korea." Wilson denied any wrongdoing although he acknowledged withdrawing money for personal use from his campaign fund. (UPI)

Economic goals outlined

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thomas B. Lance, who will head the Office of Management and Budget in the Jimmy Carter White House, said a tax cut "is almost a certainty" when the new administration takes office.

But he acknowledged that a goal of reducing unemployment to 6.5 per cent next year probably cannot be achieved.

Lance, an Atlanta banker whom Carter announced Friday as his choice for the OMB, said "there are only so many things you can do" to improve the economy, and one of them is a tax cut.

"The choices are so limited that I think you have to consider that as almost a certainty," he said.

Lance said he was "sure" Carter was considering, among other plans, a proposal by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., for a $10 billion tax reduction.

Two other Carter advisers, former Federal Reserve Board member Andrew Brimmer and Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional

THOMAS B. LANCE

Budget Office, also agreed in separate television interviews — that a tax cut is needed.

Brimmer said he favored a tax rebate early next year while Miss Rivlin suggested the economy also could be bolstered quickly by "putting more money into public employment programs already on the books," rather than awaiting new programs.

Lance appeared on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation." Brimmer and Miss Rivlin, both of whom have been rumored as possible Carter appointees, were on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

Although optimistic that Carter and Congress would "move fairly rapidly" to improve the economy, Lance was pessimistic about major drops in unemployment next year. He said reducing unemployment from its current 8.1 per cent level to 6.5 per cent was "a good goal to have," but "I doubt from a practical standpoint that we are going to be able to accomplish that in 1977."

"I think it's going to be very, very difficult to do so," Lance said. "That doesn't mean that we shouldn't set a goal... (but) I rather doubt that anybody could say that we are going to be able to reduce unemployment by 1.5 per cent next year."

In an interview in U.S. News and World Report, outgoing Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said he would wait until early next year when fourth quarter economic figures are in before deciding if a tax cut is needed.

He said if further economic stimulus is necessary, it should be in the form of a tax cut rather than increased federal spending.

Texan Connally Dixie GOP pick

ATLANTA (UPI) — Southern Republican party leaders want a "spokesman" rather than a "technician" to lead the national GOP — and former Texas Gov. John Connally is a favored candidate for the job.

Officials attending the Southern Regional Republican Conference Sunday were "very heavily" for a spokesman rather than a technician to lead the party, according to Mississippi GOP Chairman Clarke Reed, co-host to the conference.

The meeting of state chairmen, national committeemen, and national committeewomen from 15 Southern states was closed to the press, but participants said Connally was a favorite to lead the party. The chairman later met separately behind closed doors.

Mary Louise Smith will step down as national GOP chairman and a successor will be selected in January.

Several participants in the Sunday meeting were to take part in the national Republican executive committee meeting being held in Washington today, where the chairmanship was expected to be discussed.

"The feeling here is that we do need someone to articulate the loyal opposition position," Reed said. "Most people haven't made up their minds but Connally would be in the lead. There is no perfect candidate."

He said Connally and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan "are the two names that come up" but, because Reagan has firmly said he would not take the post, most of the talk is about Connally.

Strengthen GOP, Reagan advises

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ronald Reagan believes it is better to stick with and build up the Republican party than start a new conservative coalition from scratch.

The former California governor, in an interview broadcast on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" Sunday, urged the GOP to stand for a set of readily identifiable principles.

"Asked if he thought the Republican party is now a 'dodo bird' on its way to extinction," Reagan answered, "My belief is the Republican party is dead, unless it stands up and erects a set of principles around which people can rally and says: 'This is what we stand for.'"

But a third party?

"Under the present election laws," Reagan said, "trying to get a new party off the ground, you're already handicapped for four years from now because unless you were in the first election and on the ballot and getting a certain percentage of votes in enough states, you do not become eligible for the federal financing of funding in the next presidential election four years from now," he said.

"So to me... if you have 18 per cent of the voters in a party that can get almost 50 per cent of the votes, and those people are willing, as they were with the platform, to finally elect a standard of principles, one that they can go forward to anyone else and say 'Here's what we have to offer,' (then) I say that's a better chance, better opportunity than trying to start from scratch."

Reagan, who lost an extremely close race for the GOP nomination to President Ford, said he believes he could have defeated Jimmy Carter in the general election.

Referring to Carter's sweep of Southern states, Reagan said, "I think there were states there — Texas, Mississippi, possibly others — that I would have taken."

But he said the "main point we found in the polls since (the election) is the major issue in the campaign, was Watergate. That would not have been an issue had I been the candidate."

The fact that it was Ford who pardoned Richard Nixon "left the Democrats with an issue they would not have had" if he, rather than Ford, had been the Republican nominee, Reagan said.

Court puts limit on uses of force

NEW YORK — For the first time a major court has held it unconstitutional "for a policeman to use deadly force against an escaping felony suspect who has not himself used violence or threatened other people's lives."

The American Civil Liberties Union reported Sunday.

The 4-to-3 decision by the United States Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit in St.

Controlled

OJAI, Calif. (UPI) — A brush fire that burned 250 acres in a remote canyon in the Los Padres National Forest 60 miles northwest of Los Angeles was brought under control shortly after sundown Sunday.

A force of 200 firefighters kept the blaze, which broke out Saturday, from spreading over more of the valuable watershed of brush and scrub oak in steep Matilla Canyon.

Louis. "Says there have to be constitutional restrictions on the use of deadly force by police," Joel M. Gora, national staff counsel for the civil liberties group, said here.

The court indicated that its ruling, "if applied elsewhere, would invalidate laws in 24 states that allow use of deadly force to arrest 'any felony suspect.'"

Gora suggested that the ruling could also be cited against New York State's law permitting use of deadly force in cases of "forcible felonies" because not all such crimes, including aggravated assaults or many muggings, involve a felon's use or threat of deadly force.

The appeals court's ruling, filed last Wednesday, evoked a scathing dissent by its chief judge, Floyd R. Gibbons, who declared, "The state is not required to adopt a policy which might encourage the fleet of foot."

Only 18 shopping days until . . .

Following yonder star

By MELVIN MADDOCKS

Once upon a time when people journeyed a little more slowly, a little more organically, as it were, through life, they took their bearings by holy days and by ancient celebrations at seeding time and at harvest. Now raspberries ripen — somewhere in November, and — sevens and — eights — have their calendars manipulated by those fluorescent surrogates for the sun that keep poor, weary plants slaving out of season.

As for the holy days, people still mark time by Christmas, Easter, Passover, and the birthdays of saints or just Great Men. But this method of observing our days and years has grown perfunctory too.

Christmas is what we have 40 shopping days until, and Washington's Birthday is mostly the date when new cars are unveiled in automobile showrooms. We have become in our primary identity, not man worshipping or man the grower but home employer, man the consumer, and the way we measure out or lives is by sales days.

Almost any excuse will do for a sale. Just a week or so ago the Sunday papers, these giant sales directories, were full of Halloween sales that had nothing to do with Halloween (except maybe tricks) and Election Day sales that had nothing to do with the election except for a few loose metaphors ("Cast your vote for the future! Buy a Stitch Brothers three-piece suit, the fashion of tomorrow . . .").

One huckster got so carried away he advertised a "Week-Long Election Day Sale."

The point is, nobody really cares what time it is as long as it's time for one more stupendous, chance-of-a-lifetime, veritable giveaway sale. The "End of Summer" sale is immediately followed by the "Plan Ahead for Winter" sale, with an "Earlybird Santa" sale or two on the side. There are Octoberfest sales in November and Novemberfest sales in October.

Every day in the year, it seems numbers its grand opening sales and grand closing sales — its midnight sales and its crack-of-dawn sales. The atmosphere is practically smoking with fire.

sales and you won't believe these prices warehouse sales. The going-out-of-business (again!) sale lives. The half-price sale is a matter of course.

No matter when one buys anything, it's always on sale. Life has become one continuous sale. We leave the store on Saturday after the pre-holiday sale. We return on Monday for the holiday sale. Then by Wednesday at the latest, there's the post-holiday sale. And in between, we attend the garage sale of neighbors who overstocked at last year's sales.

As Christmas approaches and the normal hysteria of sales really gets hysterical — just watch these revolving credit plans revolve! — we understand perfectly that sales are good for the economy; that jobs depend on sales; that the world as we know it would stop without them. But sometimes we get a reckless feeling. "So what?" Especially when we have this nasty little dream.

People in our dream have stopped commuting to department stores for the sales. They live there to save time. When they buy a washing machine, for instance, they use it on the premises. Everybody has his own bedroom suite in the furniture department. All day long people ride the escalators from old sales to new sales. All night long too — who knows the difference? Nobody has seen the sun, the moon, the stars — nature's time-referents — for years. All anybody knows is what the latest sales sign reads. And so far costs are urgently bought in July and swimming suits in January.

But wait, the dream has an upbeat (if not quite happy) ending. A little band of subversives plants a series of signs announcing: "The Sale to End All Sales." Arrows lead the conditioned customers out into what used to be the parking lot. A committee waits there to take the dazed refugees in hand. "This is the world," it is gently explained. "You will notice there are no counters in it. And this is a pond. Can you tell the difference from a sunken bathtub on a roll-back-inflation sale? Good! There's hope for us all yet . . ."

Kitchen says 'thanks'

Editor, Times-News:

At a recent meeting, when the directors of the Twin Falls County Canning Kitchen announced to the 85 members present that the kitchen had closed the season with a deficit of $900, and no funds available for needed maintenance work before it could open next year — we, as users, were agast at the prospect of losing the use of this fine facility.

When a garage sale was proposed, many felt we couldn't make it that way, and when we left that night I was chairman of a sale; not really knowing how many I had behind the project. With Oren Hutton and Pat Resch offering to do publicity, and Maxine Wanznerried and Jean Carr as co-chairmen, however, I did know that I had good help.

When it was over, we were all just overwhelmed at the support the members and users of the kitchen, and the entire community gave us, from which we realized $700.00. Many who didn't want to help with the sale made cash donations which brought our total to $1,249.99. This, of course, means the bills will be paid and the maintenance work done.

As users of the kitchen we extend our deepest thanks to all who helped in any way. To those who donated hours of time, items to sell, cash donations, and those who supported our sale. THANK YOU! Special thanks also to the Times-News, Radio and T.V. stations, especially Jim Aldrich, Chris White, Ann Carlin and Joe Burgoyne who gave our sale excellent coverage.

We urge all members of the kitchen to be at the March meeting when membership and can fees will be set and new directors will be elected. Let's get behind the directors and management of the kitchen and let them know we care about its being open and available to everyone. It's important too, to come with ideas to cut costs or help in some way, so that we can keep the costs to the users at a minimum.

Thanks again, to a caring community, LA VERNER McKINSTER, Chairman, JEAN CARR & MAXINE WANZENRIED, Co-Chairmen, Representing the Users, of the T.F. Canning Kitchen

Labor unions defended

Editor, Times-News:

After generations of striving for the workers of this country, we in the labor movement find ourselves being attacked as too powerful, not caring enough, too establishment, hardhat, boss-ridden, corrupt and out of touch.

Just to answer a few of these charges: ON HONESTY — There are 50,000 union locals all with officers and treasurers. There are only 14,000 banks in the United States; yet the ratio of embezzlement is 500 bankers for every union officer. And yet, we are crucified by the press and the banker is the pillar of the community.

ON THE POWER OF LABOR UNIONS — We do have some leverage in some industries and we probably will never be broken again as we were in the last century and even in the 20s. But compared to the power of the American corporations to control our economy and to regulate profits at will and who are beneficiaries of the corporate welfare system of the write-offs, depreciation schedules, cost plus contracts, income tax loopholes and four billions dollars to agriculture business, the corporate farms, to say unions are too powerful is a laugh.

ON WAGES — Wage restraint! What about price restraint? What about interest restraint? What about stock options, expense accounts and bonus restraints on management?

Two hundred millionaires paid no income tax and we should restrain our wage demands? What nonsense! ON BOSSISM — Markey. Compared to any other American institution, unions are the most democratic of all institutions.

Trial called 'unjust'

Editor, Times-News:

Am writing in regard to the recent trial of Dr. R.A. Kellogg held in Third District Court, Caldwell, Idaho.

Please permit me to give my concerned and frank opinion. Never before have I witnessed such a miscarriage of justice imposed upon such a dedicated doctor.

Respectfully, I would like to voice my strong objections to this type of harassment. I was present for the entire trial, and, Sir, the falsehoods and accusations so unjustly brought against Dr. Kellogg were not only untrue and unwarranted, but obviously perjury not prosecution.

For instance, the defense was not allowed to impeach the State's key witness, even though the testimony was proven worthy of impeachment. Another instance is, that the evidence presented by the State left many areas of doubt. To say it was inconclusive would be an understatement.

Dr. Kellogg is highly respected in his profession and in the community as a whole. He is deeply appreciated and loved by hundreds of concerned people throughout not only Idaho but many other states.

Why, Mr. Attorney General, has so much time, energy and money been spent to prosecute Dr. Kellogg when there are so many known criminals who desperately need prosecuting? Please give this case your kind, considerate and immediate attention. Thank you sincerely.

Was Nixon singled out?

© Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — Should former President Nixon have been singled out — among all other Presidents — for such a harsh treatment by Congress in forcing him to give up possession of his official work papers and tapes?

If Congress can pass a law — as it did for Nixon — requiring him to give up possession of his presidential papers, is there any reason Congress can't pass a law ordering the government to take possession of the work papers of a congressman or a Supreme Court justice?

These are two of the main issues involved in the Supreme Court review of the dispute over who should have possession of the 40-million documents and tapes generated during Nixon's presidency.

The third issue, which may never come up in the Nixon case, is the general question of who owns the working papers of any public official. Tradition, at least, states that top government officials, after they leave office, take their documents and treat them as private property.

But Nixon spawned a complex lawsuit in which a judge at one point ruled that the working papers of a President are owned by the public.

Meanwhile, Congress stepped into the legal picture. It passed a law saying the government was to keep possession of the Nixon documents and tapes and that the government was to decide who should have access to the materials and on what conditions.

Nixon filed suit claiming that giving the government control of the documents and permitting the government to control access violated his right to privacy.

He also argued that Congress had invaded the powers of the presidency by discriminating against Nixon when all other Presidents had been permitted to dispose of their papers as they saw fit.

A special three-judge district court upheld the constitutionality of the congressional legislation on the grounds that Congress has a legitimate constitutional interest in preserving "accurate historical records" of the Nixon presidency.

The district court also found that Nixon might be "less likely" than his predecessors to "intentionally dispose of his documents."

Nixon appealed to the Supreme Court seeking review. He argued that the congressional act "represents a drastic departure from the 200-year-old practice" and was promulgated "in a time of passion" and hostility against the former President.

Opposing Supreme Court review, the Justice Department argued that the lower court decision was correct. "The presidential materials, which by and large were produced by public employees at public expense, were affected . . . by a public interest that gives the nation important rights in them."

Even if the Supreme Court decides in the government's favor, there is still the question of whether — if this government retains possession — Nixon must be paid.

ICL questions plant

Editor, Times-News:

Southeast Idaho Area 9 of the Idaho Conservation League (ICL) and other interested citizens of Southeast Idaho, are pleased that the Utah Power and Light Company (UPL & L) is willing to adopt a kind of public forum for the discussion of possible siting of a coal-fired power plant in our area. The medium chosen is apparently advertisements costing hundreds of dollars each. In several Southeast Idaho newspapers.

We sincerely wish that citizen groups had the similar financial resources of such huge public utilities to engage in advertising campaigns exploring these vital issues in the public interest. Unfortunately, we do not. We must depend on a representative press which is free to choose what it prints as a public service or because of wide reader interest.

In 1975, Idahoans stated clearly and unequivocally through the Idaho's Tomorrow survey, what they wanted their state to be like 20 years from now. On the subject of energy, the following quotations from the Idaho's Tomorrow Workbook are indicative of these wishes and the bases for them:

"The amount of electricity annually generated in Idaho is 2 to 5 times the amount of electricity consumed in the state."

Idahoans, like other Americans, waste up to 50 per cent of the energy available to them."

"Majority opinion favors increasing energy capacity through the development of new, less polluting energy sources (solar, wind and geothermal)."

"Idahoans are concerned about conservation, greater utilization, and increased efficiency of existing energy sources and supplies. . . ."

"Coal-fired plants are regarded as the least desirable of new sources of energy."

Are you listening Utah Power and Light Company? It is against the fabric of this public feeling that we should discuss what is meant by a Bancroft site being only a "preferred alternative" to another site. Forty thousand acre feet of water rights on the Bear River is a pretty strong preference in our opinion.

The UPL & L ad suggests that some of ICL's questions are "premature" or contain "inaccurate assumptions." ICL invites UPL & L to openly state what its intentions are rather than massive explanations of what they are not. Perhaps then a meaningful dialogue can be engaged in between the Company and the Citizens of Idaho.

Editor, Times-News:

Your newspaper and the sponsoring businesses need to be commended on the fine publication of the recent special, "Family Edition." It's good to see something of high moral value and high personal standards coming out in print.

Concerning a letter to the editor your paper received following the publication, criticizing you and the sponsors, I feel the writer was thinking in total reverse. If the time comes when several Magic Valley businesses join forces to support a special publication supporting murder, illegal use of drugs, abortion, juvenile delinquency and crime in general — then and only then, would it be fitting and proper to check into possible boycotting of those business establishments.

Until then, keep up the good work and please continue with the "good news," which churches and religious of high standards are offering.

Why TF is safe

Editor, Times-News:

I would like to comment on the Twin Falls safe place to live, in November 26 Times-News.

There are several reasons for it being a safe place, one is it is much easier to block off than most, unless you know the back roads, and not too many know where they lead.

Then with two canyons, we don't need to worry about floods as so many do.

Then, thanks to our location, no earthquakes, no cyclones, and plenty of good hard rock under us. What more could we ask for?

We must not forget, our law enforcement agencies, which have a lot to do with our safety, my shop has no lock, but thanks to them I have lost nothing, and I have been here since 1911.

There is no better or safer place to live.

Vigil ends in violence

MOSCOW (UPI) — They came as they have every year since 1965, dissidents led by Nobel Peace laureate Andrei Sakharov, to observe a minute of silence in what Sakharov called "solidarity with the millions of victims of the Stalinist terror and those who are suffering in prisons for their convictions."

For years police had refused to let them stage their Constitution Day vigil at the statue of 18th century Russian poet Alexander Pushkin in the center of Moscow. But since 1973 they had been tolerated.

This year there was trouble again. Someone in the crowd hurled packed snow and dirt at the bare-headed Sakharov, at least one other dissident was arrested and what was meant to be a peaceful gathering degenerated into a melee with police moving in to disperse the crowd of several hundred.

"This hooligan act was staged by KGB secret police agents. It is a provocation against the people who came here legally to support the cause of human rights," Sakharov said following the demonstration Sunday.

During the demonstration a Western correspondent was detained for 10 minutes by police who stopped him taking photographs. On his release he found two tires on his car slashed.

Dozens of uniformed and plainclothes policemen were on hand at the outset, pushing into the crowd and ordering participants to disperse.

The 55-year-old Sakharov refused, saying he had a right to be in the park on Gorky Street. The physicist was jostled to an edge of the square and when he removed his hat and attempted to speak he was hit by the snowball. The crowd surged around Sakharov in an apparent attempt to protect him.

At the same time, Pyotr Grigorenko, an ex-Soviet army major general and war hero whose dissent earned him six years in psychiatric hospitals, climbed on a park bench and appealed to the crowd to remember Vladimir Bykovsky.

Bukovsky, who began the Constitution Day demonstration to protest the arrests of underground writers Yuri Daniel and Andrei Sinyavsky, has spent half his life in prison and is presently in jail for violating the rules of a prison camp.

Freedom to Bukovsky," the dissidents shouted.

Police moved in and began pushing demonstrators into the street. Most of the participants scattered and Sakharov said he escaped in a car belonging to a foreign correspondent.

Sakharov said poet and song writer Alexander Rosslyak was arrested but not injured.

"We are afraid that this provocation may lead to future arrests," he told Western correspondents.

Japanese voters refuse pro-US party majority

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese voters today denied the pro-American Liberal Democratic party a majority in parliament for the first time in its 21 year history, reflecting an apparent dissatisfaction with the government's handling of the Lockheed payoff scandals.

Party leaders opposed to reformist Premier Takeo Miki immediately called a convention to force his ouster.

The final returns gave Miki's conservative philosophy despite its name, 249 seats, seven short of a majority in the 511 seat lower house of parliament.

Although it failed to win a majority, the LDP probably will continue to rule with the help of independent con-

Artillery fire traded

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Muslim leftists and Christian rightists exchanged artillery fire overnight along strategic areas near the southern border with Israel, Beirut newspapers said today.

The exchange came as the Palestinian guerrillas and Syria were reported to have reached agreement on the guerrillas' refusal to surrender their weapons, averting a threatened showdown with the Syrian dominated peacekeeping force.

The compromise, however, was reported to allow the guerrillas to move some heavy arms south toward the Israeli border, threatening a new confrontation there.

The correspondent of the leftist daily al-Safir said the Town of Bat Jellil, under Palestinian and Moslem leftist control, exchanged shellfire with the Christian rightist towns of Ain Ebel and Rmelish in an area near the Israeli border.

servatives, 21 of whom were elected. It remains the largest party, with opposition fragmented among five parties.

The LDP's share of the popular vote fell to 41.97 per cent, compared to the 46.85 per cent it won in the last election four years ago.

The LDP went into Sunday's election wracked by internal strife over Miki's extensive investigation of the $12 million scandal, with the party virtually split between pro Miki forces and anti Miki forces led by former Deputy Premier Takeo Fukuda.

The election results were a shattering blow to Miki, who based his election strategy on public exposure of the Lockheed scandal in an effort to cleanse his party's corrupt public image.

"The result shows the people have severely criticized us for causing the Lockheed scandal," Miki told reporters early today.

But voters reelected two prominent Japanese politicians under indictment for taking bribes from Lockheed.

Former Premier Kakuei Tanaka, 58, won overwhelmingly in a display of loyalty by voters in his native province of Niigata.

In a five way race, Tanaka piled up 168,522 votes, more than three times the number of his nearest competitor. He goes on trial Jan. 27 on a charge of taking a $1.67 million bribe from Lockheed.

Former Transportation Minister Tomisaburo Hashimoto, 75, also accused of accepting a bribe, easily won reelection.

PARIS (UPI) — A cheering crowd of 50,000 Gaullist supporters Sunday elected former Premier Jacques Chirac to head a new movement that could challenge President Valery Giscard d'Estaing for right-wing support.

mation of the new movement. Rally for the Republic.

Chirac, who was fired as premier by Giscard last August, said he was "profoundly disturbed and shocked" by the police action at the Parisien Libere offices.

Gaullist party Secretary General Yves Guena said: "We cannot overlook the coincidence between an action which has been pending for two years and the holding of our rally."

Bombs sear Ulster

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A wave of fire bombings gutted 16 stores and damaged six others in the city's main shopping area Sunday in what police believe was an attempt to divert attention from a women's peace march in the Irish Republic.

There were no injuries. But the stores were packed with extra goods for the Christmas rush and the Londonderry Chamber of Commerce estimated the damage at nearly $1.6 million. Flames shot 100 feet into the pre-dawn sky, lighting up the old walled city as fire after fire erupted in stores in Waterloo Place and Ship Key Street.

Fire units from towns as far as 35 miles away raced to help the city's fire fighters, but the city's main shopping center was destroyed.

Net worth?
PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Fortune magazine says John D. MacArthur, an insurance magnate and land developer, is America's last living billionaire, but MacArthur has never bothered to total up his net worth.
Now a court order may end the secrecy surrounding MacArthur's fortune.
The Fourth District Court of Appeals Friday ruled MacArthur's net worth must be computed and revealed to Adeline Moffett, who has a $200 million suit pending against him in a Palm Beach court.

HOPES, Australia (UPI) — A Sydney businessman who earned and lost a fortune in mining in the 1960's is pinning his hopes on rocks again — this time for their educational value instead of their industrial worth.
Ken Brudenell-Woods said Monday it was a chance remark by his son that latched him on a search for samples of the 38 types of rocks that make up the earth's crust and are found together only in Australia.
He is packaging the samples for sale to young science students. One kit was sent as a present to President-elect Jimmy Carter's nine-year-old daughter, Amy.

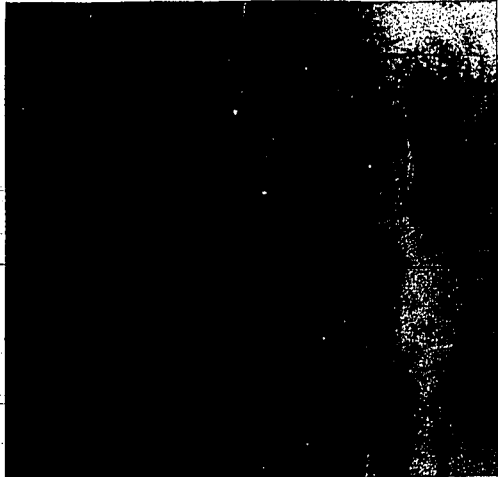

Delegates feted
KONG-KONG (UPI) — Chinese Communist Party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng Sunday met and had a cordial conversation with a delegation of French Marxist-Leninist communists now visiting China, the New China News Agency reported.
After the meeting, Hua gave a banquet honoring the delegation led by Jacques Jurquet, it said. Details of the meeting were not disclosed.

Loses dog, touch
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — James Griffin, a member of a Los Angeles rock group "Bread," says he has been unable to write songs since he lost his prized African Pound, Gershwin, three weeks ago.
"I know that sounds silly," the Academy Award winning songwriter said Sunday, "but that's just the way I am — I get very attached to the things I love."
The dog was found by two college students after it was hit by a car and taken to a veterinarian.

MIAMI autopsy
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Authorities are awaiting final autopsy results on the cause of death of rock guitarist Tommy Bolin, who was found dead in his hotel room during the weekend.
Bolin, 25, had been in Miami for a rock concert Friday night. Formerly lead guitarist with "Deep Purple," Bolin led his own group at the concert.
Afterwards, friends said, he returned to the Newport Hotel here and drank with other members of the band until 2 a.m., when he retired.

ICB depositors won't lose funds

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Persons with deposits in the International City Bank will not lose the money because of the bank's failure — the fifth largest failure since the Depression — but bank stockholders may not be as lucky.
ICB, the city's sixth largest bank, was closed Friday by state banking chief Kenneth Pickering because of a "deficiency in capital." After tense negotiations between two local banking groups and state and federal officials, it was purchased Sunday by the Bank of New Orleans.
"A financial disaster has been averted," said Gov. Edwin Edwards.
All 10 branches were to open today under the new name.
"They close signs Saturday saying 'closed by the order of the Commissioner of Financial Institutions of the State of Louisiana.' Immediately after the closing, supermarkets, department stores and other shops posted makeshift signs refusing checks drawn on the bank."
BNO president Larry Merrigan said his bank would begin handling ICB's 70,000 accounts today as its own.
"Our decision to move in this positive manner is testimony to our faith in the overall health of the New Orleans economy and the great potential to be developed in this area," Merrigan said.
BNO, which becomes the third largest bank in New Orleans with assets of more than $500 million, purchased all ICB accounts and some of its installment loans. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which covered depositors for up to $40,000, purchased most ICB commercial loans under the merger agreement.
ICB, which was owned mostly by Italian investor Serafino Ferruzzi and lawyer Louis H. Marrero IV when it failed, was founded in 1966 and quickly became the most

Quiet stroll

NEWLYWEDS John Warner and Elizabeth Taylor stroll along a quiet street in Middleburg, Va., Sunday. The couple was married in a ceremony at Warner's farm in Aloka, Va., Dec. 4. (UPI)

Newlyweds begin 10-day honeymoon

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (UPI) — Middleburg's latest newlyweds, actress Elizabeth Taylor and former Navy Secretary John Warner, are settling into the leisurely and genteel lifestyle of his colonial town.
The couple spent Sunday, the day after their wedding on Warner's farm, attending an Episcopal church service and strolling on brick sidewalks along the quaint shops that line the town's main street.
The Right Rev. Neale Morgan presided over the couple's outdoor wedding Saturday and at church services Sunday at Emmanuel Episcopal Church.
Morgan said Warner has attended church fairly regularly "considering his worldwide travels" and he expected to see the couple in church fairly often when they are at home.
Following a 10-day European honeymoon that begins today, the couple will return to Warner's farm, which many observers expect he will use as a base to launch a political career.
Warner, who campaigned in Virginia for President Ford, is considered a likely candidate for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by retiring Republican Sen. William L. Scott in 1978.
The 44-year-old Miss Taylor has said she would support Warner's career, whether it is in politics or any other field.
"His aspirations are my aspirations," she said recently.
Miss Taylor, whose first major screen role was in National Velvet, still is recuperating from a fall from a horse at the farm.

Berserk at 94

PUYALLUP, Wash. (UPI) — A 94-year-old convalescent home resident shot and killed two fellow patients, wounded a nurse and then committed suicide as police broke into his barricaded third-floor room at the Riverwood Care Center.
Albert Andre died of a self-inflicted bullet wound at Tacoma General Hospital.
Police, called to the nursing home, found two elderly men lying in the lobby. One was dead and another dying. Andre, too, lay mortally wounded.

Capone crony dead

CHICAGO (UPI) — Joseph Charles Fusco, a millionaire liquor distributor and one time crony of mobster Al Capone during the beer running days of Prohibition, died in his suite at the Conrad Hilton Hotel.
Fusco was indicted in 1931 with Capone on 5,000 counts of violating federal prohibition laws and had a long record of arrests.
Authorities said Fusco called an ambulance to the hotel Saturday afternoon but the attendants arrived at his 18th floor suite too late. The housekeeper found him dead in the suite he had occupied since 1956. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. He was 74.
Fusco, the Chicago Crime Commission's "public enemy No. 29" in 1930, began his career with the Chicago crime syndicate during the prohibition era of the 1920s when he was a beer runner for Capone's gang. He later was identified as Capone's manager of operations, overseeing liquor distribution to taverns, liquor stores, nightspots and hotels controlled by the syndicate across the nation.

He was indicted along with Capone in 1931 and charged with 5,000 violations of the federal prohibition laws. Other charges against him included assault with a deadly weapon, receiving stolen property and conspiracy. He was never convicted on any charge.
Fusco claimed he left the racketeers when Prohibition was repealed but his name came up often during investigations of syndicate operations. In 1963 he was identified by a Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations as a member of the Chicago crime syndicate.
Fusco's business affiliations in Chicago included his presidency of the Van Merritt Brewery Co., his presidency of the Chicago Linoleum and Tile Co., and connections with several other liquor distributors.

He is survived by two sons. Funeral arrangements were opening.
Late Converts
The generation of steam power into electricity that could be used for light, heat or running a motor began in 1800. But 1929 was the first year in which 50 per cent of U.S. city and town residences were wired for electricity. And it took until 1945 for half of America's farms to have access to this power source. Better business loans available to farmers

BOISE — Farmers and Ranchers are now eligible for full financial support from the Small Business Administration, according to Verne Leighton, Acting Boise District SBA Director.

Long term lending for farm land, improvements, equipment and operating capital may be guaranteed by SBA through regular lending institutions of southern Idaho and Eastern Oregon by the Boise office of SBA. Funds are available for individuals, partnerships and farm corporations, with a maximum limit of $500,000. Leighton said. Guarantee funds are available to farm tenants as well as owners. Interest cannot exceed 10 per cent. Loan funds may be used for almost any reasonable agricultural or farm related business purpose. Included is the purchase of land, making improvements, fencing, irrigation systems and pollution control, for the construction of buildings as well as the purchase of livestock, machinery and equipment.

Funds can even be used for construction of farm homes when not available from other sources. Short-term loans used for operating may be available, he added.

As with regular business loans, SBA guarantees repayment terms to the apparent ability of the owner to repay. However, operating loans are expected to retire annually, funds for working capital, 7 years, and loans for machinery, equipment and livestock etc. are expected to retire within 10 years.

Borrower may receive up to 20 year term on land and permanent improvements, construction of buildings, etc.

Like with commercial business lending, farm borrowers are expected to have a reasonable equity in the venture as well as having practical operational knowledge and the ability to manage a farm business operation.

This expanded lending program, Leighton explains, is not expected to replace, duplicate, or conflict with the existing programs of the Farmers Home Administration or other Federal agricultural assistance agencies. It makes Federal loan guarantees available to the broad segment of farm businesses previously ineligible for credit bolstering.

Farmers eligible for EMHA help will be referred by SBA to that agency. And EMHA will be referring to SBA the loan applicants they are unable to assist.

SBA loans are restricted to small ventures. The maximum present size standard for agricultural loans is annual volume of $25,000 or less.

Expanded availability of federally guaranteed loans aims at further bolstering of America's farm enterprises.

Mine reclamation studied in Nevada

RENO — Some noticeably large land areas in Nevada have been altered by mining operations. In other places, old mine dumps and small reds deposits peck mark the countryside.

Dr. Paul T. Tueller has been, and is involved in research efforts to beautify such scars on the landscape or return them to a state more com-pable with the surrounding country. He is also developing a research proposal for additional such work.

Dr. Tueller is a range ecologist, Renewable Natural Resources Division of the College of Agriculture, University of Nevada.

"Interest is high throughout the west," says Dr. Tueller. "In reclaiming mine scarred areas especially where strip mining for energy producing material (coal, uranium) is, or has been underway. Metal mines of the type we have in Nevada ordinarily don't disrupt as much land, especially if they are shaft or tunnel operations, as do the strip ventures. But the large open pit mines in Nevada, plus the dumps from the smaller ones, have produced some land disruption and a resultant need for reclamation."

Dr. Tueller has conducted a research operation in cooperation with, and through funding of Kennecott Copper Corporation. The work has been concerned with trying to revegetate tailings and waste dumps at Kennecott's White Pine County operations. Currently, Dr. Tueller is involved in a study effort in cooperation with the U.S. Forest Service involving revegetation at the old Leavitt Mine area of Douglas County.

"Revegetation of old mine dumps or tailings deposits presents some difficult problems," Dr. Tueller notes. "since they are usually very hard sites. This usually means adverse physical and chemical problems. Soils, for example, at Leavitt are high in acids as low as 2.3, or very acidic. Further, the old sites may have low soil fertility, high metal toxicity, can be extremely steep, low or poor water holding capability, and contain few soil nutrients. Further, the climatic situation can make it tough to re-establish plant materials."

Dr. Tueller pointed out that the objectives of research he has been involved in is to try and determine what plants, both natives and exotics, might grow on the dumps and tailings. Criteria include plants of which there is a readily available seed source at reasonable costs; strong seedling emergence attributes; high establishment percentages or the ability to survive and grow through the first season; high survival percentage through the third year of longer; drought tolerance; rapid growth rate; and ability of the species to self renew, that is good seed production followed by voluntary establishment.

Coupled with plant species selection, is the need to determine the best cultural practices pertinent to revegetation.

The quality of a building depends on the quality of the people who build it.

On paper, any commercial or industrial building looks good. But, you're not going to run your operation on paper. So, no matter how good your building looks on the blueprints, its ultimate quality rests in the hands of the people who build it for you.

We've been in the building business long enough to know that without good people, you're not going to get too many good customers. That's why our people, all of them, are building construction professionals. Which makes it easy for them to work well together. To work well for you and with you.

Because of our people, we can do the entire job for you, from site location to landscaping. Or any part of it. As much or as little as you want us to. Either way, you're assured of quality, professional workmanship. Efficient workmanship that gets you under roof faster, and saves you unnecessary construction delays and dollars in the process.

When you decide to build a quality building, call us. We'll put our quality people to work for you.

Congressman calm

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Phillip Burton, legs crossed in a placid pose, puffed slowly on a cigarette and paused for effect before telling a Capitol Hill visitor, "I am cooperative by nature."

The remark, by a House activist who once barged into a meeting uninvited and who has been described in print as possessed of a "sandpaper personality," was merely one symptom of the unpredictability of the first and most spirited of the current struggles for congressional leadership.

House Democrats will be choosing new officers Monday, with their most important decision the election of a majority leader from among Burton, the presumed front-runner, and Reps. John J. McFall, Richard Bolling and Jim Wright. The winner of the next House could be affected by the character of the winner. But none of the four has a clear majority of the 292 Democrats, and the outcome is anyone's guess.

"It has been and remains the most fascinating election in America this year," said Fred Wertheimer, a vice president of Common Cause, the public-affairs lobby. "It brings out the best, the worst and the most political."

Among the recent manifestations were these:

— Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., the current majority leader, has shunned any involvement in the selection of a successor, although he is McFall's patron, is widely regarded as unfriendly to Burton's candidacy and his intervention could be decisive. Although unopposed for election as House speaker, O'Neill is said by close associates to consider it "too risky" to back a contender who might lose.

— McFall, 38 years old, a quiet, genial Californian who rose slowly over 20 years to the helm-apparent's post of party whip, contended that his prospects were undiminished by the disclosure that he accepted $4,000 two years ago from the central figure in an investigation of South Korean political influence with members of Congress.

— Wright, 53, a smooth, articulate Texan who is in line to be chairman of the Public Works Committee, has taken to wearing on his suit lapels a gold peanut pin — a gift, he said, from President-elect Jimmy Carter — to suggest his potential entry to the White House and further his contention that he would serve as a bridge between Democratic liberals and more conservative members from the Southwest.

— Bolling, 60, a senior member of the Rules Committee, became an aloof student of House history and institutional reformer while spending nearly half his life as a member from Missouri. As if making up for decade of lost time, he has been campaigning in House office buildings in personalized pursuit of support.

— Burton, 50, a rumpiled, brash Californian who is the most liberal and most junior of the contenders after 13 years in the House, won election as chairman of the party caucus two years ago by challenging the House establishment and championing rules changes that diluted the power of legislative chairmen and leaders.

All four candidates are aware that the majority leader controls minimal House patronage and exercises limited institutional authority. Particularly under a strong speaker, as O'Neill is expected to be, and in a House democratized by rules reforms, power more often

Pearl Harbor recalled

Honolulu (UPI) — Childish thoughts now expressed by mature voices reveal how it felt 33 years ago being a wide-eyed teenager under fire when Pearl Harbor was attacked Dec. 7, 1941.

To Barbara Kawakami, it meant near decapitation by an exploding shell while she was delivering her first homemade dress at the plantation village of Waiapahu behind Pearl Harbor.

To an army colonel's son,

11-year-old John Smythe, it meant riding his bike through the Japanese attack on Schofield Barracks. Impervious to the danger because he was certain the bombs and bullets "were just more army maneuvers."

To 13-year-old Charles Furiya on his father's Oahu farm it was the agonizing prospect of sudden banishment by his Filipino and Hawaiian playmates because he and the attackers of Pearl Harbor had the same heritage. To newly drafted Kazuma Oyama the bombs and torpedoes that Sunday ended his weekend pass at home and sent him scurrying back to the headquarters of the 395th quartermaster battalion.

Their views of that morning differ from history's. They saw it through the eyes of the young whose beautiful, tranquil world was suddenly shattered by bombs and bullets, wailing sirens and the towering thunderheads of black oily smoke scarring the skies.

The first thought that struck farm boy Furiya when the shock and excitement subsided was, "What if Japan invades our island?"

"I had to recognize," he said, "that Japan was the attacker. And that my parents were aliens and all of us were citizens of Japan. What would happen to them? What would happen to me if we were invaded?"

Smythe, who is now a colonel stationed at Schofield was so imbued with the military tradition of American invincibility that his young mind couldn't conceive that any nation would dare attack his father's army.

"I was certain all the noise we heard was just the engineers down there fooling around again," Smythe said. "Even the sight of a colonel firing his 45 at some unseen aerial target failed to dent my insistence that these were just maneuvers, and the planes with the red discs were part of the red and blue forces printed that way to make the exercise more realistic."

World oil prices going up, up, up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — World oil prices have been going up with the encouragement and collusion of the U.S. government, according to an article in Foreign Policy magazine.

U.S. officials have encouraged Middle East oil price increases since 1971 in the belief they would cause greater economic damage to Japan and European nations than to the United States — and give America an advantage over its industrial competitors, says V.H. Oppenheim.

Oppenheim, described as a Washington-based observer of the economic scene, writes in Foreign Policy's winter issue that the faulty strategy helped to cause an "international recession and to trigger worldwide inflation."

In a companion article, Theodore Moran predicts oil prices will go up 10 to 15 percent per year above the level of inflation.

He says tensions may heighten within the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries when efforts to balance supply and demand cause some members to let larger numbers of producing facilities lie idle. OPEC nations are likely to deal with the "international scramble for revenues by assigning explicit production quotas with steeply rising oil prices, he contends.

Oppenheim says Nixon administration figures often predicted, and seemed to advocate, higher oil prices.

He quotes former Ambassador to Saudi Arabia James Akins as saying Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told the Shah of Iran in 1975, "the United States understands Iran's desire for higher oil prices." Oppenheim says Iran interpreted this as an encouragement to raise prices.

Saudi Arabia, which wanted to keep prices down, also understood the U.S. attitude to be encouraging an increase, he says.

The Saudi oil minister wrote Treasury Secretary William Simon in 1975: "There are those amongst us who think the U.S. administration does not really object to an increase... There are even those who think you encourage it for obvious political reasons, and any official position taken to the contrary is merely to cover up the fact."

U.S. oil companies would have nothing to lose, and much to gain, by an OPEC increase, Oppenheim says.

Hailey visit

HAILEY — A representative of the Twin Falls Social Security Office will visit Hailey Thursday.

He will be in the commissioners room of the Blaine County Courthouse from 1 to 4 p.m. to assist those who wish to file for Social Security, Medicare or Supplemental Security Income. Those who have questions about the Social Security program should contact the representative on this visit.

The representative is in Hailey on the second Thursday of each month.

VA lists spending in Idaho

BOISE — The Veterans Administration spent $27,376,433 in Idaho during fiscal year 1978 for facilities, operations and benefits to veterans and dependents, Harold L. Kuyper, director of the Boise VA regional office, said.

Of the total VA expenditures, $4,828,133 was spent in Twin Falls County. A total of $13,033,331 was spent in Magic Valley.

Kuyper said the total expenditures in Idaho included $30,069,102 for veterans compensation and pension; $17,229,795 in readjustment and education payments; and $2,992,510 for insurance and indemnities. Regional office and hospital operating costs and construction amounted to $13,905,631.

Ada County received the largest portion — $23,312,349. Canyon County, second with $4,209,199, followed by Twin Falls County.

Through the years, as we learn to evaluate people and personalities, we find that enduring friendships are one of life's precious jewels. What is more comforting than a friend who is a person to whom you can be just your natural self? Do you know what the definition of a friend is? It is a person who knows all your faults but still likes you, in spite of them. None of us is free from faults. That is only human. So we gravitate to those who like us and who, in turn, we think rather special. Let's cherish our friendships and make the most of them... last could acquaintance be forgot.

Confidential info sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By order of Congress, the government has asked 300 hospitals for "sensitive and confidential" information on patients and doctors involved in subsidized medical care programs.

According to a letter obtained by UPI and comments of officials involved, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare needs the survey to evaluate the watchdog agencies that oversee the $7 billion a year Medicare and Medicaid programs.

"Because of the sensitive and confidential nature of the data, we have made special arrangements to safeguard the privacy of the patients and practitioners represented in a study," HEW's Dr. Louis Hellman said in a letter asking 300 hospital administrators to release the information voluntarily.

"We need to find out how the watchdog program has affected patient admissions and lengths of stay."

The data requested includes patient date of birth or age, residence, and blood pressure on admission; the attending physician and surgeon; final diagnosis explaining admission; discharge status; and expected source of payment.

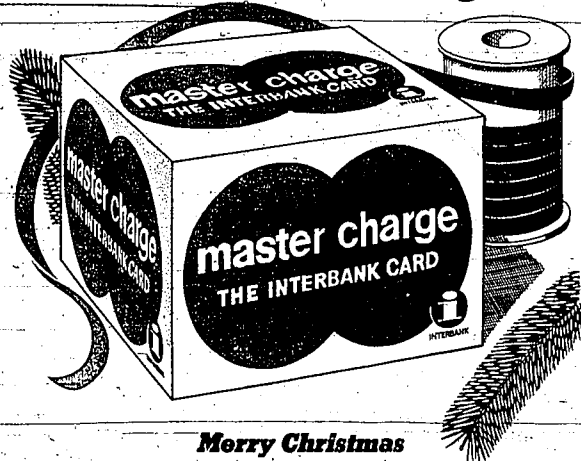

The study aims to evaluate the effectiveness of the so-called Professional Standards Review Organizations, created by Congress in 1972 to monitor the quality and necessity of subsidized care given Medicare and Medicaid patients.

Deadline extended for appointments

WASHINGTON — Rep. George Hansen announced he has extended to Saturday the deadline for all young men and women applying for nomination to any of the United States service academies to file with his office.

The regular application cycle closed Dec. 1, but under the extension, data will be accepted from applicants for an additional 10 days.

Nominations to the United States Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y., must be made by Dec. 31, and nominations to the United States Naval Academy, the Air Force Academy and West Point Military Academy must be made by Jan. 31, 1979.

"Young men and women who are uncertain as to the status of their application, should contact my office immediately," Hansen said.

"This will enable them to forward any missing data in time to meet the Saturday deadline. A complete file will greatly increase the applicant's chances of receiving a nomination to the academy of his or her choice."

DEAR ABBY: My father was a "Mr. Fixit." He could repair anything. Being the oldest, I had to hold his lights and hand him his tools, so I learned more than the average girl about many things.

Seven years ago I married my high school sweetheart. He's a sweet guy, but he doesn't own a screwdriver and doesn't want one. He would (and has) walked five miles in a blizzard before he'd change a tire.

I've done all the painting and repair work—even built shelves and cupboards, and fixed electric appliances around here. My husband can't even hold a rake, much less drive a nail.

Last night I went to sleep early. (I'm eight months pregnant.) Somehow he broke the handle off the faucet in our bathroom, so he woke me up. Water was squirting everywhere, and he'd used all the towels in the cupboard to soak it up. I got up, turned off the main water valve (he didn't even know where it was), cleaned up the mess, threw the towels in the dryer and asked him what happened. All he said was, "Don't bug me."

Mate no handyman

Abby, he's a steady worker, is good-looking and doesn't drink, and I know he loves me. So what do you do with a guy like that?

TIED

DEAR TIED: You love him for his virtues, overlook his faults, hire a handyman and don't bug him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful 24-year-old college-educated daughter who is getting married soon. Her future husband wants her to keep a kosher kitchen. Do you think she should?

PATTERSON, N.J.

DEAR PATTERSON: Not unless he's Jewish.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a girl who's nearly 18, and I have this thing about kissing. For some weird reason, kissing turns me off completely. I can't stand to be kissed by a boy, and I can't bring myself to kiss one.

Even as a child I hated it when a relative would say, "Come here and give me a kiss."

I am dating a nice boy who has been very patient with me. Most guys would give up on a girl who refused to kiss him.

I know I'm letting my boyfriend down because of my hangup and I'll probably lose him soon because I can't expect him to go with me forever (I don't kiss him). My Mom tells me to force myself, but I just can't.

Other girls my age seem to enjoy kissing, but it's repulsive to me. Please help me.

HATES TO KISS

DEAR HATES: Apparently your early experiences related to kissing are responsible for your negative feelings. I recommend professional help to overcome your hangup.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—

I am 77 years of age and feel fine. The doctor claims I have diabetes on the basis of tests although I have none of the symptoms such as thirst, weight loss or frequent urination. He wants an expensive check every two months which I feel is excessive. I test my urine which is sugar free.

Having spent over $1,300 with this doctor and not showing any symptoms, I would appreciate any advice you can offer.

Dear Reader—

The symptoms of diabetes you mention occur after the disease had advanced to the point that one is losing a lot of sugar in the urine. Many diabetes are asymptomatic. It is an oversimplification, but the mildest diabetic has a normal fasting test, and diabetes is found only with blood tests taken after drinking sugar water or after eating. The next most severe diabetic may have an abnormally high fasting blood glucose level. Finally, the more advanced diabetic will have symptoms. The early diabetic is often overweight until the weight-loss phase begins.

Too many costly diabetes tests?

It would be difficult to know if your doctor's charges are excessive or not without knowing all of your problems and what you have had done. If you think you have been overcharged you should ask the doctor about it. If you are still not satisfied I would suggest that you take the matter up with the county medical society. The society will have a board to handle such complaints and will review your case for you.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-11, Diabetes: Diagnosis, Prevention and Management. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long stamped self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Dear Dr. Lamb—

Seven years ago I had a large plantar wart burned out of the ball of my foot. Scar tissue formed in the hole. As I walk a callous builds up, and I shift my weight to my other foot, so now my hip is bothering me. I trim this callous once a week.

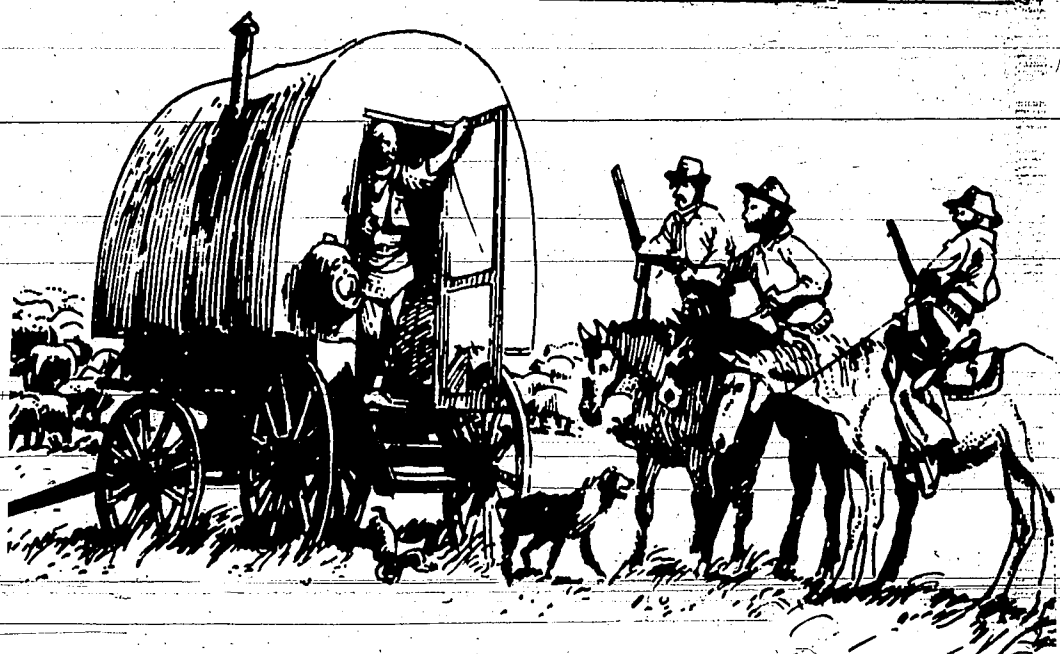

Is there any possible way I could have this scar tissue completely removed from my foot? And what kind of doctor should I see about it?

Dear Reader—

I hate to use you as a bad example but that is what your case represents. One can burn out warts from many locations or they can be cut out, but one shouldn't do this with a planter wart. Why? Because too often a painful scar develops, and then one has a sore foot. Warts will disappear in time. Even if it takes five or six years it is better to suffer with the wart and apply local treatment to the bottom of the foot than it is to have it cut out or burned out and suffer from a painful scar the rest of one's life.

I can't say how much can be done for your problem at this point. However, you should go to an orthopedic specialist. He may be able to help you. He will also know what can be done about that painful hip.

Your problem illustrates another feature of the skeleton. If you have foot trouble it may affect how you walk, your balance and even the alignment of your spine all the way to the head. Your feet are the foundation of your skeleton. If you get them out of kilter it is like disturbing the foundation of a house, and the whole structure is affected.

Hired guns

New Gem history a people book

GUNMEN hired by cattle ranchers to drive sheepherders off the open range are among the many characters from early Idaho history portrayed in "Beckoning the Bold—The Story of the Dawning of Idaho," written by Rafe Gibbs and illustrated by Alf Dunn; both University of Idaho professors emeritus.

MOSCOW — For 34 years, reporter Rafe Gibbs traveled throughout Idaho, talking to oldtimers to gather stories for True Magazine or Ford Times or Popular Mechanics. Today, those oldtimers and many others walk the pages of "Beckoning the Bold — The Story of the Dawning of Idaho," Gibbs' contribution to the Bicentennial.

In Gibbs' view, one of the most intriguing characters of Idaho's territorial days was Col. William H. Dewey "who typified your western entrepreneur." He writes that Dewey figured he could create a town in the southwest Idaho desert. If a hotel were started so he built the Dewey Palace amid the sagebrush — Nampa was the result.

Gibbs recalls talking with Dewey with the late Mary Borah, wife of the famous Sen. William E. Borah. She recalled him as a "massive figure of a man, wearing a bush of a beard and a stieple that had a diamond as big as a marble — and the diamond was splattered with yesterday's egg."

At the other end of the social ladder was an early bartender in the north-Idaho mining town of Dixie who held a Christmas party for the town's children. A rotund fellow, he played Santa Claus and, for a reindeer, dressed a mule with deer's antlers.

What Gibbs tried to do was gather together enough stories so readers could get a feel of what those early times were like, for themselves. Gibbs said, "The Yakima, Wash., native who grew up near Moscow, stressed that the book is a reporter's history, oriented to the people and what they did, not to statistics."

Indeed, in his epilogue, Gibbs says of Idaho people: "But perhaps Idaho's greatest treasure lies in her good, deeply loyal people. Idahoans appreciate what they have, and they intend to keep it basically that way. Make no mistake, however. The people have a forward outlook on life. They are just not seeking change for change's sake."

For 25 of Gibbs' years in Idaho, he was director of information and publications for the University of Idaho, his alma mater. During his spare time, he gathered information for free lance articles for magazines all across the country. "I kept files of research materials over the years and some of them have been told all around the country," the author remarked. Gibbs and his wife retired to Florida several years ago, but he wrote most of the book in Boise at the Idaho Historical Library. The 266-page volume was published by the University Press of Idaho, a division of the Idaho Research Foundation.

The 20 black and white sketches which illustrate the book are by Gibbs' colleague Alf Dunn, UI professor of art emeritus, whose work illustrated many of Gibbs' free lance articles through the years.

Who were some of the other characters in the Gem State's colorful history? There was red-headed Cynthia, the shady lady whose eviction from a proper ball in the Florence mining camp caused a gun battle worthy of a television western. There was Dick Ferrell, North Idaho's lumberjack preacher, a small, but powerful man, previously a blacksmith and prize fighter, who was noted for stopping fights among the "jacks" and holding prayer meetings on the spot.

"And I couldn't leave out Diamond Field Jack, one of the most colorful characters in the early history of southeast Idaho," Gibbs noted, describing the man as the cattlemen's hired gun whose job it was to scare the sheepherders out of the country. His trial was one of the most famous in the West and helped launch William Borah's career. Gibbs said, noting that Diamond Field Jack was a reprieve from hanging only to die some years later when hit by a taxi cab in Las Vegas.

And women in Idaho's history? There are two very important ones. Interesting women aided explorers who, in turn, had major influence on the development of the state.

"There's Sacajawea, of course," Gibbs said, noting that her most important role was not pointing the way through the wilderness, as she often portrayed in statues. Her most important role was as evidence to the Indian tribes along the way that Lewis and Clark's expedition came in peace, no women ever went with a war party!

Some 55 years after Sacajawea led Lewis and Clark into Idaho at Lolo Pass on Aug. 12, 1805, an Indian girl named Jane, daughter of the Nez Perce chief Timothy, volunteered to guide Capt. Elias Pierce to the vicinity of the North Fork of the Clearwater River, where, legend said, the mountains glittered.

To avoid bands of Nez Perce hostile to the whites — the converted Chief Timothy believing in helping his fellow Christians — Jane led the party of gold seekers north along the now Idaho-Washington border to a place south of Moscow, where the party turned east, fording the Polatch River in the vicinity of Kendrick before plunging into the wilderness.

On Sept. 30, 1860, in the area where Canal Creek and Oro Fino Creek meet, the party found gold. Within two years, the population in the area was 20,000.

"One sluice built that first winter ran for three miles. This sluice and the many others constructed as new discoveries were made all pointed urgently in one direction — to settlement (leading to statehood)," Gibbs wrote.

Whether Jane really led the Pierce party has been questioned because Pierce mentions acquiring "a guide who knew the country" but doesn't give the guide's name. "Considering the times, Pierce may have been chivalrously included," Gibbs wrote, noting that historian Byron Deffenbach gave Jane most of the credit for getting the party where it wanted to go.

In any case, as Gibbs records, Pierce's grave in Indiana is marked with a small metal star placed by the Grand Army of the Republic, while Jane's grave at the confluence of the Clearwater and Snake River is marked with a large monument erected by her husband John Silest, a pioneer government contractor.

There are dozens of other characters and events in the book, the last being Edward J. "Ned" Curtis who, as Secretary of the Idaho Territory, spent more time in the gubernatorial office than any appointed governor. According to Gibbs, "When an appointed governor failed to show up in the Territory, or took off after a quick look at it, Curtis was there to step in as Governor. And praise be that he was!"

Although one convincing governor managed to get Curtis removed from the secretary's post, Curtis was back soon after by popular demand, praised by the "Idaho Statesman" for bringing order and system out of the confusion of the Governor's Office in Idaho.

With Curtis, and the close of the Territorial era in Idaho, Gibbs concludes the book, which is available both hardbound at $10.95 and in paperback at $6.95 from the University Press of Idaho, University Station, Box 3367, University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho 83843.

Hyperactivity poorly understood

© N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — Michael is known by his fellow first graders as "the baddest boy in the class." Always talking out of turn, jumping around, disobeying or ignoring the teacher and picking fights with his classmates, Michael continually disrupts classroom activities and, although of normal intelligence, fails to keep up with the class.

At home, Michael's perpetual motion, bad temper and unpredictable behavior torture his parents and older sister. The family rarely goes out together because Michael's antics are a constant embarrassment.

Michael has the symptoms of hyperkinesia, or hyperactivity, a poorly understood behavioral syndrome marked by constant — often purposeless — activity, impulsiveness, short attention span, distractibility, emotional outbursts and a low tolerance for frustration. In recent years, hyperactivity has been the subject of heated controversy over its frequency, cause or causes and proper treatment. The debate has left parents and teachers thoroughly confused about how to recognize and deal with a hyperactive child.

Although some say hyperactivity is a wastebasket diagnosis for any child who does not quite conform to society's stereotype of normal childhood behavior, there is little doubt that an identifiable abnormality such as Michael displays actually exists. The question is what does one do about it?

For unknown reasons, the hyperactivity syndrome mainly affects boys between 1 and 16 years old and is usually recognized at about 6, when the child enters school. While the symptoms generally subside during adolescence, recent studies of adults who were hyperactive as children suggest that the symptoms may persist in "subdued" form, sometimes causing psychological difficulties in adult life.

Hyperactivity is most commonly treated by stimulant drugs — amphetamines and related substances — which have a paradoxical calming effect on children with "true hyperkinesia." This unusual drug effect has suggested that the hyperkinetic child has an abnormal slowness of his brain's "braking" mechanism that is corrected by stimulants.

In 1970 hyperactivity became the focus of public discussion and debate when it was revealed that some public schools were prescribing stimulant drugs to all children deemed "overactive" in class. Many of these children had nothing more serious than the normal exuberance of childhood, had not been examined by an expert and were not treated under medical supervision.

Interest in hyperactivity was further fueled a few years later by the claims of a California allergist, Dr. Benjamin Feingold, that the syndrome was caused by foods and medicines that are artificially flavored or colored or that contain aspirin-like (salicylate) compounds.

Feingold, who wrote a book promulgating his "elimination" diet to treat hyperactivity, estimated that as many as 25 per cent of school children may be afflicted with this "sensitivity" and its adverse behavioral consequences.

Others state, however, that any behavioral trait present in a quarter of children must fall within the range of normal and that true hyperkinesia occurs in only 1 or 2 per cent — and certainly no more than 10 per cent of American children. (The phenomenon is clearly culturally related since some countries say it does not exist at all and others report an incidence of less than 1 per cent.)

Frequently, the hyperkinetic child will have other concurrent difficulties, such as specific learning disabilities, perceptual problems and emotional disorders, which require special treatment.

In examining an overactive child, the American Academy of Pediatrics and others caution that many factors, in addition to true hyperkinesia, can cause this symptom, including the child's basic personality anxiety, depression, inapparent seizures and the perceptions of the beholder. Psychological and neurological testing of the child should be done before a diagnosis is made and treatment begun.

To find specialists who can do the proper workup, your doctor might call the Pediatric department of the nearest medical school or university hospital, or you can write to the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, 5225 Grace Street, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15226 (Please send a stamped, self-addressed, legal-size envelope).

Hyperkinesia has been variously ascribed to such conditions as minimal brain damage, sensitivity to food additives, low blood sugar and excessive lead. In fact, the real cause is not known and it is likely that a number of different causes can produce the hyperkinetic syndrome.

Drugs, most commonly amphetamine or methylphenidate (Ritalin), are said to alleviate symptoms in about 70 per cent of children with true hyperkinesia. Unlike normal people, who become restless, nervous and overactive from stimulants, hyperkinetic children are subdued by them.

Stimulant drugs, especially amphetamine, diminish weight gain and growth and experts advise that they be discontinued two years before the child's bones stop growing to allow him to catch up. On the positive side, studies have shown that use of these drugs in treating hyperkinesia does not lead to addition or abuse of other drugs.

Ali's interest waned

© Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — Nobody is sleeping in Muhammad Ali's gigantic bed. It was supposed to have been one of the most elaborate beds ever built, perhaps "the greatest" bed ever. Everything about it was to have been in keeping with the star's status. It was scheduled to be delivered just after his last big fight.

"The order is on hold," explained Chicago custom-furniture manufacturer Jerry Self. "It's just a bin full of pieces of wood nailed together. It doesn't even look like a bed, but it would have been a great bed."

"Ali evidently lost interest in the bed."

That's one of the problems of Chicago Interior Crafts Inc., one of the last custom furniture makers left in America. Last year, the 100 employees hand-carved and custom finished about $4 million worth of fine furniture (mostly created by interior designers).

The list of famous clients include: President Kennedy, who had a traditional wingback chair designed for his Palm Beach house. It looked like any other chair on the outside, but inside was an elaborate back support system because of his injured back.

Taylor, Erickson marry at Almo

Diane Fletcher as Mona Brigstock

ALMO — Sherrie Taylor, Yost, Utah, became the bride, of Scott Erickson, Almo, in a double-ring ceremony performed Nov. 19 in the Almo LDS Ward Chapel.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Erickson. Bishop David W. Roden performed the ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives. Baskets of yellow mums, carnations, daisies and fall flowers decorated the chapel.

Sara Jane Spencer played background organ music and the traditional wedding march.

Candi Erickson, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and Otto Blair Taylor, the bride's brother, was ring bearer. The bride was given in marriage by her father and chose a floor-length white wedding gown featuring a high neckline decorated with brocade daisy design. The bride was also decorated with the brocade design as were the sleeves and cuffs.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from four rows of brocade flowers. She carried a bouquet of small yellow roses, daisies and yellow carnations with white baby's breath and orange-scented streamers. A reception and dance followed the ceremony and were held at Yost. The couple greeted guests before a white backdrop accented with a yellow valance and beauty baskets of fall flowers.

Sara Jane presided at the guest book. Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Julie Ann Tomlin. Bridesmaids were Kenna Harper and LaDawn Teeter.

Clark Ward Jr. was best man and ushers were Jeffrey Jones, Les Tracy and Dallas Ward. Master of ceremonies at the reception was Dennis Erickson, brother of the bridegroom. A reading was given by Debra Ward and a song by Tommy Hutchison.

Mrs. Paulette Bridger, Mrs. Penny Earl and Mrs. Reggie Teeter, sisters of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Dennis Erickson, sister-in-law, were in charge of gifts. Carrying gifts were Gary Earl, Ken Erickson and Sheila Bridger. In charge of refreshments were Esta Pierson, Sonja Woodruff, Sharon Evans and Penny Thompson.

A four-tiered white wedding cake decorated with small yellow, orange and rust colored flowers, centered the bride's table. Mary Harrell, Burley, made the cake.

The Ridge Runners orchestra from Almo furnished music for dancing.

Guests attended from Idaho, Utah and Colorado. Special guests included Mrs. Lottie Erickson, Almo, grandmother of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. George E. Pierson, Plymouth, Utah, grandparents of the bride; and Joseph E. Taylor, Yost, Utah, grandfather of the bride.

The bride graduated from Raft River High School and attended Ricks College for one year. She is employed at Cassia Memorial Hospital, Burley.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Raft River High School and has been working with his father in ranching. The bridegroom plans to attend College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls and the bride will continue her work. They honeymooned in northern Arizona and southern Utah.

MR. and MRS. TED KLAAS

McGinnis, Klaas wed in formal ceremony

TWIN FALLS — Beth McGinnis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al McGinnis, Twin Falls, and Ted Klaas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Klaas, Jerome, were married Nov. 28 in a formal ceremony at St. Benedict's Priory.

Rev. Bruno Segalla, Boise, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a gown which had been worn by her three older sisters and which was fashioned of white satin and lace with princess lines and a long train. The bridegroom wore a pinstripe suit worn by his father at his wedding.

Sue Herbst attended her sister as matron of honor. Music was provided by Orice, Marty and Theresa Klaas and Mary Vogel, all sisters of the bridegroom. They were accompanied by Clay Hartz and Dean Follinger.

Tom Klaas, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and also "sang a solo." Jeff McGinnis, brother of the bride, was altar server and Mike Cannon and Bob Herbst were readers of the mass.

Reception attendants included Mrs. James Liggett, grandmother of the bride, and Kathy Cannon and Barbara McGinnis, sisters of the bride, and Kathy Flannery and Maureen O'Keefe, Nancy McGinnis served as guest book attendant.

The couple will reside in Jerome where Klaas is an auctioneer at the Jerome Auction Center.

Oswald: "Good players tend to overbid to game. They expect to play the hand well and they also look for help from the defenders."

Jim: "South's two notrump bid was based on the above theory. He did hold eleven high-card points, but there were no kings, only one ace and a worthless doubleton in his partner's rebid suit. East had made a really poor diamond overcall and if West had opened a diamond, South would have romped home. Instead West led his fourth best heart. East took his ace and led back the eight spot. South played low since dummy's jack was there to protect his queen. If West had played correctly and stuck in the ten, South would have had no play for his contract and probably would have gone down two. But for some unaccountable reason West rose with the king and led back a heart to South's queen."

Oswald: "I can account for it. The spirit who looks after overbidders was there to cause the misplay and South took full advantage. He was in his hand with the queen. He led a club, finessed dummy's jack, returned to his hand with the ace of spades, repeated the club finesse and wound up with game and rubber."

It's a greeter job

© N.Y. Times Service
NEW YORK — A black woman pulled up in front of City Hall at 3:15 p.m. Friday, and a tall, lean, distinguished-looking man wearing silver-rimmed spectacles emerged. He climbed the steps, walked into the mayor's office, took off his coat and waited — for the mayor of Vienna to arrive.

Francis T. P. Plimpton, the city's official greeter, was on the job again.

It was not a long wait. Leopold Gratz, mayor of Vienna, arrived a bit early in a stiff camel-colored coat for his 3:30 appointment — with Mayor Abraham D. Beame, and Plimpton greeted the Austrian and his aides with a cheer. "Terrific! nice afternoon, isn't it?"

Then the city's greeter ushered Gratz into Beame's inner sanctum, where the two mayors chatted amiably in front of the fireplace, with

Jamaica economy in tough times

© N.Y. Times Service
KINGSTON, Jamaica — "Regardless of which party wins the forthcoming general election" on Dec. 15, The Daily Gleaner commented editorially the other day, "The state of the economy is such that it will be many months, or years, before there is recovery."

The economic problems of this Caribbean island are manifold. With the population now more than 2.1 million and rising, the working-age labor force expands every year. The economy, however, contracted in 1976 for the second year in a row.

Unemployment, chronically above 20 per cent, may now exceed 25 per cent. Inflation has been retarded from the galloping 25 per cent of 1974 to 11 per cent in 1976, twice the inflation rate of the United States.

As for the island's principal sources of foreign exchange, bauxite shipments are recovering, but sugar prices and tourism are down.

In the last two years, Jamaica's holding of "net foreign reserves" — American dollars and other foreign exchange minus Jamaica's short-term liabilities to banks abroad — have plummeted from 130.2 million Jamaican dollars to a negative $1.9 million dollars as of Sept. 30.

Jamaican businessmen and foreign diplomats say this deterioration is a sign of deep economic trouble now and ahead.

The Jamaican dollar has been priced at 10 per cent above the American dollar since 1973, when a link to sterling was ended. Financial analysts here would not be surprised if the Jamaican dollar is devalued in 1977.

No pre-election flight of capital is occurring, says a financial analyst, because "everybody's got their money out. I don't think there's any more money to get out of here."

Tourism fell in 1975, evidently because of the financial analyst, because "everybody's got their money out. I don't think there's any more money to get out of here."

The government has pumped money into hotels, taking partial or full ownership, to keep them open and to protect the jobs of their employees while waiting for tourism to rebound.

To show that it is as serious about managing the economy as it is about improving the social and economic conditions of the disadvantaged, Prime Minister Michael Manley's People's National party has just announced that if re-elected it will produce a national development plan.

The labor party led by Edward Seaga, a financial specialist, has accused the Manley government of mismanagement — of the economy. But in the 10 years from 1962 that the Laborites governed with Seaga as finance minister they produced only single economic blueprint, the five-year plan of 1963.

Valley plans school vote

VALLEY SCHOOLS — Valley School District No. 222 will hold its plant facilities election Tuesday at Valley High School.

Voters will decide on a 2½ mill, five year levy that will be used to repair, maintain and furnish the existing buildings in the district. The expected $20,000 from passing the levy will not be marked for any additional facilities, according to Supt. Arlyn Boddy.

The election polls will open at noon and close at 8 p.m. in the Valley High School building. Any resident 18 years or older living within the district will be eligible to vote.

X-ray MD says fees misstated

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The director of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital radiology department Sunday disputed a Times-News report that a new X-ray fee schedule could increase doctors' charges by 68 per cent and move radiologists' income into the $120,000 per year range.

In an "Open Letter to the People of Magic Valley" run as a Times-News advertisement, Dr. R. Dennis Davis Sunday criticized the Times-News figures.

Davis claimed the overall increase under the new fee schedule would be about 3.6 per cent, not the 68 per cent computed by the Times-News.

Davis also disputed Times-News calculations of radiologists' current income at VMH.

Based on a 12-month projection for three full-time radiologists, Davis claimed, "the average radiologist's income would be 'under $75,000' annually, not in the $90,000 per year range reported by the Times-News."

Davis also took issue with a Times-News report which estimated that fee increases under the new X-ray schedule could go as high as 68 per cent.

"The actual increase in physician fees in the new schedule is 3.6 per cent when representative exams are utilized and the frequency of these exams are considered," Davis wrote. "Davis' letter claimed the Times-News stories had been 'factually in error and misleading to the public.'"

Today, however, Davis refused to discuss the alleged errors of fact or the ways in which the stories, in his view, were misleading.

"You have all your information," he said. "The new fee schedule for radiologists was approved Nov. 15 by the VMH hospital board."

Davis refused at that time to discuss the new fees or to provide information on how to compare them to the radiology department's current fees.

A Times-News study comparing 72 identical listed procedures on the two schedules indicated that the new doctors' fees would rise by an average of about 68 per cent.

Such an increase, the Times-News report, could raise radiologists' average income annually from its current level of about $90,000 per year to about $120,000 per year.

The Times-News based its figures of available hospital data. The hospital figures for this year, projected to a full-year, showed radiologists' income in total would be about $219,781.

This amount divided by the two-and-a-half radiologists will have employed at year's end resulted in a salary average of about $87,812. Buttressed by about $24,000 in nuclear medicine fees radiologists also receive, this amount would have raised average salaries to over $90,000 per year.

Assistant VMH administrator John Hayden, asked today whether he thought Davis' figures were accurate, said he didn't know how Davis had arrived at his figures.

Hayden said the information previously given the Times-News on the fees paid last year and this for X-ray services had been "the true actual facts."

He said Davis had been given the same information but had also used information not prepared by the hospital.

"He (Davis) got it (income and fee increase figures) from his information," Hayden said. "I don't know what he used. Everything we've given you has been actual and what has happened."

Hayden said the hospital had studied some of the fee increases under the new X-ray schedule, due to go into effect after the first of the year, but he added that no attempt has been made to calculate fee increases in the aggregate.

"He (Davis) worked his figures up, and I feel he has to defend those, not I," Hayden said. "Those are his, and he has to defend those — they're not the hospital's; they're his."

Gem Cowboys give buckle to KH man

KING HILL — Terry Parish was awarded a handmade silver belt buckle by the Idaho Cowboy's Association Saturday at the Rodeo Way Inn Convention Center in Boise.

Parish served this year as vice president for the Three Island Rodeo Association and part of the year acted as president of the association. While in office he established a new advertising selling system, and built interest in the association.

The silver buckle was made by Henry Hanson of New Plymouth as an award to the Committee Man of the year, voted on by members of the association.

New heating units warm TF jail, some offices

TWIN FALLS — Workers involved in the renovation of the Twin Falls County Courthouse have completed installation of at least part of the new courthouse heating equipment, taking the chill off the jail and some offices.

Merl Leonard, county commission chairman, said there is now heat in the jail, a priority area because of prisoners having to be housed on a 24-hour basis. Many of the offices on the third floor of the courthouse also have heat and as of Thursday afternoon the equipment in the sheriff's office was turned on.

Leonard said some of the other offices are still using small electric heaters to keep workers warm but he expects all of the heating units to be functioning early in the coming week.

Most of the time since installation of heating and air conditioning units began has been sufficiently warm to avoid any hardship on county workers," Leonard said, but with the recent arrival of cold weather officials have been concerned, especially for the jail area and the sheriff's office which is manned on a 24-hour basis.

Additional blankets have been issued prisoners, Leonard said, and some of the cells have been vacated and closed off to conserve heat since prisoner numbers have been reduced. Leonard said there are fewer prisoners housed in the jail now because of the decreased traffic in illegal alien farm workers.

Minidoka repair work stalls

BURLEY — The Teton Dam disaster blocked maintenance and repair work on dams in the Minidoka Project this year.

Carlos Randolph, project superintendent at Burley, told irrigators a demand made by the rehabilitation in the Wake of the Teton disaster postponed maintenance projects planned elsewhere.

He said Teton and the Island Park dam received top priority this summer. The Teton Dam broke and flooded farmland in that area June 5; the Island Park Dam has structural deterioration similar to that found in the American Falls Dam.

As a result of the maintenance postponements, the Bureau of Reclamation did not spend as much money on maintaining other dams as it had budgeted for 1978. Randolph said as he reported this year's expenditures and made estimates for 1979.

Maintenance on the Jackson Lake Reservoir was $17,000 less than budgeted (with November and December expenses estimated). Palisades Reservoir received $10,000 less attention than had been projected, while the Minidoka Dam and Headworks (not including the power plant) will be under budget $17,000 for the year.

On the other hand, Randolph said, maintenance continues at the budgeted level for the American Falls Reservoir, even though construction is already more than 30 per cent on a replacement dam.

Randolph said the bureau is trying to get reservoir maintenance ahead of the dam contractor's schedule. Maintenance at American Falls is expected to match the budgeted $35,000 figure for this year, the 1977 estimate is $33,000.

Total expenditures for the reservoir this year are shown at $74,000, just $1,000 under the budgeted figure of $75,000 shown for both 1976 and 1977.

Randolph said, "The erosion problem around the parameters is still great, particularly on the Indianside."

He referred to the Fort Hall Indian Reservation on the east side of the Snake River at the head of the reservoir.

The bureau has planted a special type of willows in four rows about six feet apart in a 12-mile belt along the east side of the river.

The willows, brought here from Nebraska, will grow to about 30 feet high. They have an underground root system and a "spider web" root system above ground that the bureau hopes will hold the soil.

The bureau now is sprinkling the willows to give them a strong stand, but Randolph said it does not plan to sprinkle them after the replacement dam is completed.

Maintenance at the Minidoka Dam and Headworks was shown at $14,000, far below the $31,000 budgeted for this year. The 1977 budget will be up to $35,000 as the bureau proceeds with a renovation project there.

Randolph said the three-quarter-mile dam itself needs some maintenance and the footings and other wooden parts of the dam, built in 1909, have deteriorated.

The total expenditures for Minidoka were budgeted at $20,000, but only $35,000 is expected to be spent this year. The 1977 budget will be jumped to $38,000.

Jackson Lake is scheduled for major repair in a program that began last year and will stretch for another two to three years. However, only $57,000 of the budgeted $74,000 for maintenance will be spent this year, with the 1977 budget increasing to $79,000.

The total expenditures at Jackson Lake this year are $110,000, $14,000 under the budget. The 1977 figure is listed at $134,000. Flood and recreation credits this year of $42,000 leave expenditures of $68,000. The $54,000 in estimated credits for 1977 leave a budgeted expense of $80,000.

Palisades, budgeted for $18,000 in maintenance, received only $8,000 this year. The 1977 budget is only $15,000.

The total costs there in 1978. Randolph said, will be about $45,000, minus a $3,000 recreation credit that leaves actual expenditures $11,000 under the budgeted $53,000. The 1977 budget shows $51,000.

The total multipurpose cost at the Palisades Dam was about $145,000. Irrigation and flood control were charged 29.1 per cent ($42,195) each, power was charged 33.2 per cent ($48,661) and recreation, fish and wildlife a per cent ($11,600).

Republican panel to meet Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — Republican Central Committee members of Twin Falls County will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. to review applications for the position of county clerk, auditor and recorder.

County Chairman Laird Noh said there have been five applicants submit resumes and several other persons indicate an interest in the vacancy but only five have submitted written notices of their intention to seek the post. Democrat Harold Lancaster, who also has two years to run in his job, announced recently he will retire the first of the year. He cited the heavy work load as a reason for leaving.

There are four men and one woman in the running, according to Mrs. Noh. A central committee recommendation will be submitted to the county commissioners who will make the final selection.

In addition to the appointment, the committee is also expected to discuss the November election results and other routine business.

BLM says carryover water for '77 'good'

BURLEY — Draining of the existing American Falls Dam next fall could make 1978 a "real critical year" for irrigation water, but a carryover from the past season to 1977 is "real good," according to a Bureau of Reclamation official.

Leo Busch, chief of river operations for the Bureau of Reclamation at Burley, says upstream storage is now at 2.3 million acre feet, compared with a two million storage into 1976.

"With this carryover," he told irrigators, "we should have real good water conditions, but it depends upon the snowpack."

He said 1978 could be a critical water year because of the projected emptying of American Falls Dam for completion of the replacement dam there next fall.

But he outlined to the Committee of Nine numerous measures that will be taken by the bureau to maintain adequate storage over the 1977-78 winter.

"All the water we can store upstream will be moved in the spring for the 1978 season," he said.

At Island Park 15,000 at Grassy Lake; $12,000 at Jackson Lake, 1.2 million at Palisades and 1.125 million at American Falls.

With American Falls levels to be drawn down, Busch said, the bureau wants to store as much water as possible upstream and maintain the flow past Blackfoot at 1,000 cubic feet per second.

He said the bureau will need the cooperation of Upper Snake water users.

The American Falls spillway is at 4,343.2 feet elevation. The contractor on the replacement dam has approved to go to the 4,346-foot level.

Busch said the bureau will try to maintain the level to prevent water going over the spillway.

Busch said the bureau is trying to get the contractor in completing the project, he said. He said the American Falls Dam normally fills by July 1, and the bureau plans to begin emptying it then for the breach of the existing dam contemplated in mid-September.

Busch said maintaining a 1,000-cubic-foot-per-second flow past Blackfoot, coupled with the flows from 3,000 springs within the American Falls reservoir, would refill the reservoir behind the new dam starting in November.

Although the carryover from this season is large, the runoff next spring could be small and cause some shortage.

Art Larsen, watermaster at Idaho Falls, told irrigators that the precipitation during the past season was normal or above (except for May) until September. He said the precipitation for October and November was practically zero on the Snake watershed, the last report being about 1 inch.

Although irrigators were blessed with abnormally high snowpack this past year for the fifth year in the last six, Larsen said it is "too early to be pessimistic" about next spring's runoff.

"I've seen a lot of dry Novembers," he said. The two men also reviewed river operations over the past season.

The bureau has about one-third of its flood control storage at Jackson Lake and the other two-thirds at Palisades, which has a million acre feet of flood storage.

Local farmer 'tops'

TWIN FALLS — A 10-year plan and business-like management of his farm, noted Mike Quensell, Twin Falls farmer, the Idaho Farm Bureau's outstanding young farmer award for 1978 and a trip to Hawaii to compete with other state winners.

Quensell, who will take his wife Valerie to the island paradise with him, said she was one of the reasons he won the contest.

"The contest takes into account your net worth and your wife has to be a part of the farming operation," Quensell explained. "Without her cooperation, you're not going to win."

Quensell also attributes much of his success to his father's successful farming operation upon which his ever-expanding operation is based.

"I had been in the business for a long time," Quensell said. "He had a real good foundation to build on."

Contestants are judged according to the quality of their farming operation and how they have improved it.

The key to Quensell's success is his family's 10-year plan for growth of their dairy, beef and farming operation.

"One reason I won the contest is because of the business-like manner in which we run our farm," Quensell said. "Our 10-year and overall improvement goals helped me win."

"We have improved the dairy in the past 10 years—we have improved our farmland by adding concrete tiles and we have improved our dairy production," he added.

"We have tried to get more milk per cow," he continued. "We have culled heavily, put in concrete corrals and improved our milking facilities and made milking time more regular."

And the Quensells have incorporated their family farm with built-in incentives for the family members to work harder to increase profits and to share in those profits.

At the same convention, Douglas Jones won a trip to Hawaii with his wife to participate in American Farm Bureau competition, too.

Jones won the discussion meet at the Idaho Farm Bureau Convention in Boise last week after winning local and district contests, and will compete with other state winners in Hawaii in January.

"We pretty well agreed that the biggest role of the Farm Bureau needs to be communication with the urban areas," Jones recalled. "We must explain the farmer's needs to city people and show them how they can help us provide the quality and quantity of food they are used to having in the supermarket."

"The farmer needs the help of city dwellers to pass legislation helpful to him and in turn the farmer will provide the food they need in the city."

During the discussion, according to Jones, participants suggested several programs to improve communications between the farm and the city.

"One program is existence now, the family exchange, brings a city family to a farm family's farm for a weekend," Jones said.

The record 17-inch snow in the Pocatello area last April—produced big miniflows into the American Falls Reservoir from the lower levels, Busch said. It filled to the top, and three feet into the restricted zone set because of structural deterioration.

The bureau lowered the level, but had raised it less than two feet when the Teton Dam broke on June 5.

Island Park, with 40,000 acre-feet of flood storage, was used this season to control flow on the North Fork. Busch said. It filled to the top, and the reservoir was surcharged by the Teton disaster, but drawn down again by September and is now at 100,000 acre feet.

Busch said the bureau cut the American Falls Reservoir level too fast early in the season because of anticipated heavy runoff in May.

Cool weather prevented the expected melt, but the bureau brought water down from Palisades in July until the August rains.

Larsen said the Rigby-Hiway area raised some concern during the heavy demands of a dry late July and extra storage was being sought. The August rains also erased that concern.

Shopping center due

Wendell eyes new center

WENDELL — John Wert, Wendell realtor, auctioneer and land developer, and Forrest Hall, Burley announce the groundbreaking of Hall's Farm and Home Supply.

Wert stated this is the first phase of a proposed shopping center to be constructed on the south edge of Wendell, to be known as the Village Square.

Hall, owner of Hall's Farm and Home store in Burley, is an affiliate of True Value Hardware stores, offering a variety of merchandise in farm-related items, automotive housewares, paint, electrical and plumbing lines, lawn and garden supplies.

Hall, a native of Burley, opened his hardware business 11 years ago, after being engaged in a farm-livestock operation for many years.

The Wendell store will have heavy emphasis toward farm hardware lines, expanding into other areas in the near future.

Airlines end year with more money

N.Y. Times Service

NEW YORK — The nation's major airlines will end 1976 with considerably higher earnings than projected earlier this year. In a striking turnaround from last year's combined loss of $104 million, industry officials and analysts are looking for profits totaling $300 million to $350 million on revenues of $15 billion.

The reversal is largely attributable to the recoveries staged by three of the 11 trunk carriers — Trans World Airlines, Eastern Air Lines and American Airlines. Together they lost $156 million in 1975. This year they are heading for an estimated $125 million gain — a turnaround of more than $280 million.

But there is not much cheering. Uncertainty clouds the economy, future price increases, the gargantuan capital appetites of the airlines and federal efforts to ease government regulation and throw the industry open to more competition.

The paradox is improved performance and growing unease was illustrated recently in two statements by one of Wall Street's leading analysts of airline securities, Best Fingerhut of Oppenheimer & Co.

On Nov. 10, Fingerhut reported the latest 1976 air traffic and revenue gains, concluding that an earlier estimate of a $277 million net income for the airlines this year would probably be somewhat exceeded.

On Nov. 17, Fingerhut announced: "We are removing all airline securities from our recommended list." The reason, he wrote in his bulletin was growing concern over the deregulation efforts.

Edison got laughs in his day, also

Chicago Daily News

CARBON HILL, Ill. — They laughed at Edison and the Wright brothers.

That's Windmill John Jacklich talking.

The broad smile does nothing to hide his pride in that strange contraption out in the back yard.

Most folks who pass through Carbon Hill (pop. 317) — just down the road a piece from Coal City and 60 miles southwest of Chicago, are merely puzzled. What they see is a huge, unorthodox windmill — John's lifelong dream and his personal answer to the energy crunch.

For lack of a better description, it resembles a merry-go-round spinning continuously on top of a big chicken coop.

Jacklich designed the contrivance in his head, built it by himself over the past year and now is adding the final touches.

"I'm right to the point where I'm ready to mount the generator," he said, with the eagerness that has propelled all inventors over the centuries.

"I hope to meet 70 per cent of my electric needs. If I put up another one and install a booster, I can probably take it all."

Will the homemade power plant work? Jacklich, 63, has all the confidence of an Edison. "It's got to work. It surprises me — the power that thing's got."

His wife, Florence, is betting on the retired insulation contractor, home remodeler, basement excavator and Jack-of-all-trades.

"Everything I've ever seen John do, he's never failed," she said. "So I guess I've got to have faith."

Windmill power is nothing new to rural America: Small, propeller-driven generators were common on farmhouse rooftops before public power lines arrived. But that was prior to the advent of major appliances, when most electricity was used for lighting.

The major exception was Dr. Jean Mayer, a prominent figure among food experts who recently became the president of Tufts University. Mayer, co-chairman of the conference, opened the sessions by declaring that since the famines of 1974 and the World Food Conference of that year there may have been a crucial turning point.

"Serious work has started to get done. I feel we are beginning to do what we need to do even though we may not be doing it according to a blueprint," Mayer said. "We are at the beginning of a new era. The signals are favorable. The pessimism of the last few years is no longer justified."

Almost every speaker had a gloomier view.

Sol H. Chafkin, who oversees social development programs in developing countries for the Ford Foundation, cited the case of Brazil, which had been considered a country steadily developing out of its "poor country" status.

Over the last 10 years, he said, Brazil has experienced no significant increase in production of its domestically consumed major food crops. Over the same period population has grown by 20 to 30 per cent, driving up food prices and further diminishing the food buying power of the poorest people.

Dr. C. Peter Timmer, a food economist from Cornell University, said that the world already produces enough food to feed the entire human race a nutritionally adequate diet of 65 grams of protein and 3,000 calories daily.

"But hunger and malnutrition afflict one-half billion people," Timmer said, "because of the mechanisms for determining access to this food. Distribution, not production, is the key."

As several speakers noted, it is only poor people who do not have enough to eat. If they had enough money to buy food or to buy the land or fertilizer needed to grow their own, ordinary economic pressures would distribute the food more evenly.

Although no formal consensus was reached on anything, it was clear from the speeches and discussions that most of those speaking saw little cause for optimism about world food prospects.

Famine predicted in world

N.Y. Times Service

PHILADELPHIA — The world food situation, currently favorable as the result of good weather in most growing areas, remains precarious for the near future and potentially disastrous over a longer term.

Although the crisis that drew so much attention two years ago has abated, leading experts to conclude that the dire warnings made then were exaggerated, the prospect for new famines and wider malnutrition remains great.

These were among the dominant views expressed by several leading experts on global food problems during a three-day conference on food and nutrition which ended here Friday.

The meeting, sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences, drew more than 300 people from 15 countries.

Although no formal consensus was reached on anything, it was clear from the speeches and discussions that most of those speaking saw little cause for optimism about world food prospects.

War cry goes up in Boston

N.Y. Times Service

BOSTON — An "adult entertainment district" established by city officials here two years ago has become the object of heated controversy and the subject of a lawsuit, with police crackdown.

The district, composed of two sleazy downtown blocks, was established to keep X-rated movies, strip tease bars and other pornographic establishments from spreading throughout the city.

There was an attempt to call the district the "Liberty Tree Neighborhood," but it has become known across the nation as the "Combat Zone."

The current furor was caused by two developments.

The first was the release of an internal police report charging widespread "incompetence and corruption" in the downtown police district that includes the Combat Zone. The second was the stabbing of two Harvard football players during an excursion to the area.

Now the Combat Zone has been saturated with policemen. Tactical Patrol Force members stand outside the doors of the strip joints. Vice squad detectives roam the streets. The sidewalks, normally the haunt of bands of women in platform shoes and short skirts, are empty.

On Monday, declaring the attempt to isolate the sexual activity a failure, Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan and county prosecutors met to plan a new crackdown, using the liquor laws and the District Attorney's major violators unit, set up last spring to deal with racial violence.

The concept behind Boston's zone, which clustered the X-rated businesses together, is somewhat different from the zoning being proposed in New York City, which attempts to keep the activity away from residential neighborhoods and spread it out.

The Boston area is filled with strip tease bars, many of them, according to their neon marquee, "world famous." X-rated movie houses, photo galleries in book stores selling various devices, including life-size inflatable dolls.

In the bars, not much darker than a coal mine, the strippers ask the customers to buy them drinks, offering their company and the real or imagined possibility of further activity. Such mingling is ignited by the state liquor laws, and the police say that there are men outside the bars with buttons to flick the lights in warning when inspectors come. The favorite drinks, usually costing $6 or $8, purports to be vodka and grapefruit juice. It needs refilling quickly.

The chief difficulties in extending better agricultural methods to the developing countries are also political and economic, many speakers said. They include the fact that most national leaders in poor countries derive little power from rural populations and therefore do little to improve the lot of farmers.

Perhaps the most chilling forecast came from Dr. Reid A. Bryson, the University of Wisconsin climatologist who has been warning for some time that major shifts in the earth's weather patterns could come soon, and persist for many years, destroying many of the major agricultural regions of the world.

Bryson noted that the years since 1900 have produced the most unusual weather of the last thousand years.

In the early days of the zone's legitimacy, there was a good deal of talk about new lights and more tasteful exteriors. Trees were planted in a small park.

But the Combat Zone and Park Square, a few blocks away also, became more and more notable for hands of prostitutes. Many, the police say, had such dexterity they could fondle a man and simultaneously remove his wallet. Now, the police say there are also groups of female muggers working the district.

TF bowlers win meet

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls High School bowlers took three of four games from Bonneville Saturday.

The high school boys, Rick Quintance, Wayne Parsons, Ron Dawson, Rick McClain and Dean Dorland, defeated the Bees 2497-2302. Dorland scored a 643 series with games of 215, 203 and 220.

The varsity girls won 2210-1887. Nessa Garrett's 479 series led Twin Falls. Other members of the team were Jan Rutherford, Carol Smith, Claudia VanPatten and Julie Ochsen.

The lone Twin Falls loss came in the junior boys division where Bonneville won 2173-2089. Twin Falls team members were Eugene Wallace, Kevin Gerner, David Coons, Steve Swafford and Bob Leazer.

Wooden's heart week

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Wooden, 66, former UCLA basketball coach, was described in good health Sunday after his release from St. Vincent's Hospital where he had undergone a checkup for a heart condition.

The former "Wizard of Westwood," who guided the Bruins to 10 national championships in 12 years, was discharged from the hospital Saturday and was recuperating at his home.

Wooden was admitted to the hospital Wednesday to decide whether he would have to undergo bypass surgery for a flareup of an artery condition, but his doctor decided against it.

"He is not in need of an operation at this time," Dr. Jerome Kay said. "He was admitted just for evaluation and is doing fine."

Wooden experienced similar heart trouble four years ago and went on a routine of five-mile daily walks at a brisk pace to combat the illness.

Wooden, who retired two years ago, left UCLA after 27 years with a remarkable record of 619-147.

American motocross

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Marty Smith, of San Diego, Calif., roared to a three-second victory over Pierre Karsmakers of Mission Viejo, Calif., Saturday night to win the 20-kamp American Motocross Finals at Anaheim Stadium.

Smith led from start to finish to beat Karsmakers, a fellow Honda factory rider.

On the final lap, Kent Howerton, San Antonio, Tex., passed Tony DiSefano to finish third, while DiSefano was fourth on a Suzuki.

Pre-race favorite Jim Welner of Laguna Beach, Calif., finished fifth on a Kawasaki, followed by Gaylen Mosler, Huntington Beach, Calif., in a Malco; Mickey Boone, Winston Salem, N.C.; Rich Blerstadt, Norwalk, Calif.; Honda; Steve W. McAllen, Tex.; Suzuki, and Marty Montes, San Diego, Ossa.

Jets Holtz to stay

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lou Holtz, the first-year coach of the New York Jets, Sunday squelched reports that he would be leaving the National Football League club to return to college coaching.

"There's nothing to it," said Holtz after the Jets' 37-16 loss to the Washington Redskins, dropping New York's record to 3-10. "I'm happy with the situation here in New York and I'm happy with the owners."

Holtz reportedly has been high on the list to replace Frank Broyles at Arkansas and Darrell Royal at Texas.

"Lou told me he had been contacted by some schools in the past few weeks," said Jets General Manager Al Ward. "He also said he was happy with the situation here. He's been a little down on himself. We knew it would be rough this year but we're trying to put together a winning team."

On Wednesday Holtz said he was unhappy with the progress of the Jets and said he would evaluate the entire situation with the club after the season. He also said at that time he was not considering leaving New York.

New coach to Purdue

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Jim Young, football coach at Arizona the past four seasons, Sunday was announced as Purdue's new coach, succeeding Alex Agase.

Purdue athletic director George King made the announcement — just 10 days after Agase's dismissal was announced.

King said Young, 41, would start his new duties "immediately," and planned to bring with him several of his staff members.

Young's Arizona teams compiled a 31-13 record, including 6-5 this fall.

In four years under Agase, Purdue was 18-25-1, including 5-6 this year.

Japan tops US golfers

ONE, Japan (UPI) — American Tom Watson won the individual honors while Japan captured the team title over the United States, 2,273-2,283, Sunday in the $100,000 Sixth U.S. Japan Golf Tournament.

Watson, who took a seven-stroke lead after the third round Saturday, shot a one-over-par 36-37-73 for a four-round total of 277 and finished three strokes ahead of Japan's Iseaki.

Hiroe Yanda of Japan was third at 281 and Yoshihiko Yamoto and Kazuo Yoshikawa, both of Japan, were tied for fourth place at 284.

Watson earned $20,000 for the victory.

Both countries fielded nine players each in the competition played on the 7,140-yard, par-72 Harima Country Club Course near this central western Japanese city under chilly and windy weather.

It was Japan's second straight victory in the annual competition. Japan won $15,000 and the United States $8,000.

USF wins NCAA soccer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Junior midfielder Andy Atuegbu scored the game's only goal Sunday to give San Francisco a 1-0 victory over Indiana and present the Dons' with their second consecutive NCAA Division I soccer championship.

Atuegbu, an All-American from Nigeria, gathered in a loose ball about 50 yards from the goal, dribbled up the field, and fired a 20-yarder into the top left corner of the net at 35:34 of the first half to give the sixth-ranked Dons their third NCAA title. They won their first championship in 1966.

In registering his ninth shutout of the season, San Francisco goalkeeper Peter Annunzio was not tested too severely, making only four saves, but got a break on a penalty kick by Indiana's Charlie Felius. The penalty kick, which came after the Hoosiers' Rudy Glenn was fouled on a breakaway, hit the top of the crossbar and bounced out of play.

Atuegbu set up several San Francisco plays from his midfield position. He had a pair of shots stopped by Indiana goalie Cary Feld and was just wide on at least three more shots.

Freshman Angelo DiBernardo, Indiana's leading scorer with 20 goals, was held in check the entire game by San Francisco defender John Brooks and never got off a shot on goal.

National training center set by USOC

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States Olympic Committee approved plans to establish a national training center for all Olympic sports at the site of the 1960 winter Olympic Games at Squaw Valley, Calif., at a meeting of its executive committee Sunday.

It is expected that contracts will be signed before the end of the year so the facility at Squaw Valley can be made available during the first quarter of 1977, according to Phillip O. Krumm, committee president.

The committee will fund the project with an appropriation of $350,000. The national sports governing bodies have been asked to draw up a training schedule for the year-round use of the facilities which will accommodate up to 350 athletes.

Krumm said the Squaw Valley installation is a prototype of national training centers. He said the USOC hoped to establish two other locations, one in the East and one in the Midwest.

Krumm revealed that conversations have been held with interested parties in the Lake Placid, N.Y., area as a possible site for a second national training center. No locations were mentioned for the Midwest.

The executive committee also nominated a slate of officers to be acted upon at the quadrennial meeting in Colorado Springs, Colo., April 13-14.

Robert J. Kane, dean emeritus of physical education and athletics at Cornell University was nominated to succeed Krumm as president. He is currently the USOC vice-president. Krumm is ineligible to succeed himself.

Other officers nominated were John B. Kelly Jr., Philadelphia, first vice-president; E. Newbold Black IV, New York, second vice-president; Joel Freil, Tulsa, Okla., third vice-president; William E. Simon, Secretary of the Treasury, treasurer; and Dr. Tenley Albright, Brookline, Mass., the 1956 Olympic women's figure skating champion, secretary.

Dr. Albright is the first woman to be slated for a USOC post. The executive committee also received a progress report from the Lake Placid organizing committee for the XIII Olympic Games. The Rev. J. Bernard Fell, executive director, reported that within the next two weeks contracts would be let for the construction of the ice arena, speed skating rink and the 90-meter ski jump at the Olympic site.

WSU coach favorite to replace Majors

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Washington State coach Jackie Sherrill and Navy coach George Welsh were interviewed by Pitt officials during the weekend as prospective candidates to replace Tennessee-bound Johnny Majors as head football coach of the No. 1 ranked Panthers.

Sherrill, a former chief aide to Majors here for three years, appeared the favorite for the post.

Sherrill left here Sunday after a visit during which he was interviewed for the job Saturday by Pitt athletic director Casimir Mylinski and Chancellor Wesley W. Posvar and went to Sunday's Pittsburgh Steelers-Tampa Bay Buccaneers game with Posvar.

Mylinski left for an NCAA convention in Denver after interviewing Sherrill, prompting speculation he had selected Sherrill and passed it on to Posvar for approval.

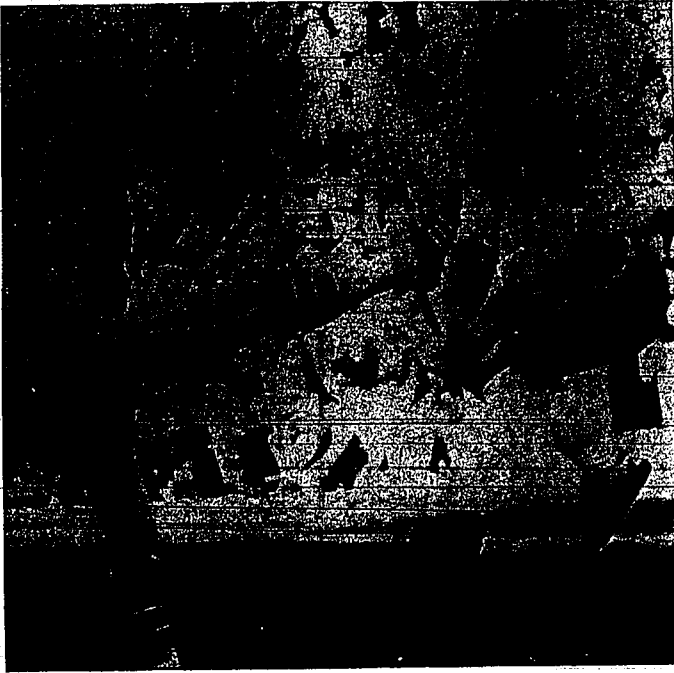

Mylinski had the authority to pick a coach, subject to the chancellor's approval.

There was no search committee to find a successor to Majors, who resigned last week to accept a six-year appointment as head coach at Tennessee, his alma mater, where he was an All-American fullback.

Sherrill was noncommittal when he left here.

New speed record

FIELDS, Ore. (UPI) — Kitty O'Neill, a 28-year-old Hollywood stuntwoman, established a world landspeed record for women Saturday on the nearby Alvord Desert in southeast Oregon, averaging 321 miles per hour on the five-eighths mile course in two runs.

Patriots clinch wild card in playoffs

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The numb feeling of a year ago dissolved completely Sunday in the warmth of a playoff celebration minutes after the New England Patriots had thrashed the New Orleans Saints, 27-6.

Essentially the same squad, minus Jim

Plunkett, that completed the 1978 schedule with a 3-11 mark, picked up its 10th win of the season to clinch a wild card berth in the American Football Conference playoffs.

The jubilation followed a rather slow-paced game in which New England finally sealed its first playoff berth in 13 years with two fourth-period touchdowns.

One of those scores, a 10-yard pun by Steve Grogan, tied a record for the second-year quarterback for most touchdowns rushing in a single season. Grogan's scoring runs of 11 and 10 yards gave him 11 touchdowns rushing for the season with one game to play, and tied him with former Chicago Bear great Johnny Lujack and Green Bay's Tobin Rode.

"The record is fine. But that's not what I was concerned about," said Grogan. "Winning this game and getting into the playoffs was my goal."

"It's a great feeling for me because I haven't been on a winning team since my senior year in high school."

Coach Chuck Fairbanks had entered the 1978 season with a 15-27 record. Yet, he fell before the season started the Patriots could turn the corner to respectability.

"I do think, however, this team has come around faster than I thought it would," said the fourth-year coach.

Public backs players in Minnesota dispute with NCAA

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — By more than two to one, Minnesotans think the University of Minnesota should defend its three basketball players who are the center of a dispute between the school and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The copyrighted statewide opinion survey sponsored by the Minneapolis Tribune indicated that 57 per cent of the respondents believe the university should take legal defense of the three athletes, while 24 per cent disagree. Nineteen per cent were undecided.

The telephone survey of 600 adults throughout the state also showed that fewer endorsed the university's soliciting funds from the public to cover legal costs; 51 per cent approve of that and 38 per cent disapprove.

The survey was conducted Nov. 18-21, before the university won a preliminary injunction against the NCAA, prohibiting the association from enforcing its probation.

The NCAA declared the entire men's athletic program ineligible to participate in post season games and association-sponsored contests because Minnesota refused to declare three basketball players ineligible.

One player sold complimentary basketball tickets for more than the face value and another accepted use of a car to attend a basketball clinic. Free lodging and long distance telephone calls also were questioned by the NCAA.

Navratilova wins $22,000 in Colgate international

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Martina Navratilova of the United States whipped Betty Slove of the Netherlands to win the $100,000 Colgate-International Tennis Tournament Sunday and said it was the start of a "winning streak that was 'not over yet.'"

The 20-year-old left-hander captured both the singles and doubles purses. After downing Miss Slove 7-5, 6-2 in the hour-long singles final, she teamed with the Dutch girl to beat Francoise Durr Browning of France and Ann Kiyomura of the United States 6-3, 7-5 in the doubles final.

Navratilova, a Czechoslovakian exile living in the United States, took home $22,000 for her singles victory and split $6,000 with Slove for the doubles win.

Her singles victory was only her second tournament championship this year, but she obviously found her form throughout the week of play here, never losing a set to any opponent.

Navratilova's earlier win this year was over American ace Chris Evert on the Virginia Slims circuit in January in Houston, Tex.

The Czech girl admitted Sunday that her play this year has not been up to expectations, although her first 14 months in America have been financially rewarding. But she added:

"After Forest Hills (where she lost) I really started to say, 'That's it. She won't make it. She's going downhill. And I want to win 20 yet. Now I'm showing them it's not true. It's not over yet.'"

Navratilova predicted that her victory here, although she played on a grass surface which she dislikes—marked the start of more championship play in 1977.

Evert did not play in the Colgate tournament but other top women players of the world such as Evonne Goolagong, Margaret Court, Browning and Helen Gourlay.

Among Navratilova's victims in the tournament were Court in quarterfinal straight sets of 6-3, 6-4 and Australian star Dianne Fromholtz in the semifinals, 7-6, 6-3.

Sunday's twin victories were a great boost to her confidence. Navratilova said, and she said she was looking forward to single play on the Virginia Slims circuit in the United States in January.

BOB TUCKER, Giants tight end, zeroed in on a pass in the endzone that looks like a sure six points against the Detroit Lions. Tucker missed the ball however. The Giants put on one of the best offensive displays of the year to defeat the Lions 24-10.

Redskins top Jets to hang on to playoff hopes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Washington Redskins, getting three touchdown passes from Bill Kilmer and a season high 104 yards and two touchdowns from John Riggins, remained in hot contention in the National Conference playoff race Sunday with a 37-16 victory over the injury-riddled New York Jets.

The victory was the Redskins' ninth against four losses and left them in a strong position entering the final week of the season. Either a Washington victory over Dallas next week or St. Louis puts the New York Giants into the Redskins in the playoffs.

Kilmer threw TD passes of 17 yards to Jean Fugett, 14 to Roy Jefferson and two to Riggins, who also scored on a one-yard run. It was the first appearance at Shea Stadium in an opposition uniform for Riggins, who last year played out his option with the Jets after five seasons.

Mark Moseley added field goals of 19, 23 and 32 yards for Washington, while Clark Gaines and Lou Giammona each scored on short runs for the Jets, who fell to 3-10.

Washington surged to a 24-3 lead at halftime and it would have been worse if not for a dropped pass in the end zone and a fumble at the Jets' one.

Broncos slip by KC Chiefs

DENVER (UPI) — Rookie quarterback Craig Penrose, in his first start Sunday, threw two touchdown passes, a 30-yarder (Riley Odoms) and an eight-yarder to Haven Moses, to give the Denver Broncos a 17-16 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

The victory improved the Broncos' record to 8-5, their best ever. Jim Turners' 20-yard field goal in the fourth quarter completed the Denver scoring.

Kansas City scored on a three-yard pass from Mike Livingston to Walter White, a one-yard keeper by Livingston and a 31-yard Jan Stenerud field goal. But Stenerud missed one extra point attempt.

Denver jumped to a 7-0 lead midway through the first period on Penrose's pass to Moses, after the Broncos blocked a punt by the Chiefs' Jerrel Wilson.

Dallas Cowboys thump Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Rookie wide receiver Butch Johnson scored his first touchdown of the season Sunday and set up another with a 55-yard punt return to lead Dallas to a 26-7 win over the Philadelphia Eagles, giving the Cowboys the NFC's Eastern Division title.

Quarterback Roger Staubach passed for 259 yards, hitting on 22 of 34 for one touchdown, as the Cowboys improved their record to 11-2 in winning their eighth title in 11 years.

The Cowboys led only 12-7 after a penalty-marred first half. But, in the third quarter, Dallas scored on a seven-yard pass from Staubach to Johnson, who was subbing for injured Golden Richards. Then, in the early minutes of the fourth quarter, Johnson fielded a punt by the Eagles' Spike Jones on his 18 and dashed down the sidelines and through several tacklers to the Philadelphia 17.

Two plays later, Robert Newhouse broke through tackle for 10 yards and the touchdown for a 26-7 lead.

Vikings defeat Packers

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Chuck Foreman scored on a pair of one-yard runs in the fourth quarter Sunday to lift the Minnesota Vikings to a 20-9 victory over the Green Bay Packers at cold, snow-covered Metropolitan Stadium.

Foreman's first scoring run came with two minutes gone in the final quarter, capping a 77-yard drive. The touchdown gave Minnesota a 13-6 lead before Chester Marcol booted a 34-yard field goal midway through the fourth quarter.

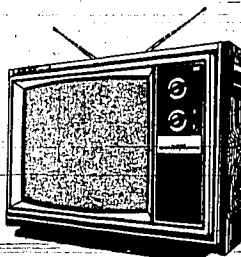

Robert Miller set up Foreman's second touchdown, his 14th of the year, with a 36-yard run to the Green Bay two with less than three minutes left in the game. Miller carried the ball 13 times for 95 yards.

Foreman, who rushed 18 times for 42 yards, broke his club record of 1,070 yards rushing set last season. The versatile back now has 1,077 yards rushing.

Simpson spectacular but Miami blasts Buffalo Bills

MIAMI (UPI) — Wide receiver Freddie Solomon scored touchdowns on a pass reception, a punt return and an end-around Sunday to lead the Miami Dolphins to a 45-27 win over the Buffalo Bills, despite another 200-yard performance by O. J. Simpson.

Simpson started his scoring spree with a 79-yard punt return, added a spectacular 47-yard pass reception and then scored from 59 yards out on a reverse.

Third string quarterback Don Stock, starting the game to gain more experience, threw for two touchdowns, the one to Solomon and a 37-yard pass to rookie Durell Harris, and added a two-yard touchdown run on a bootleg.

Dolphin fullback Don Nottingham scored on a one-yard run after Gary Davis' 57-yard sprint.

Simpson, who usually has trouble against the Dolphins defense, got going the third time he handled the ball, racing 75 yards for a touchdown. He wound up with 203 yards on 24 carries for the sixth 200-yard day of his career to extend his NFL record. He now has run for 476 in his last two games.

Buffalo, 2-11, also scored on passes from Gary Marangi to Reuben Gant and Bob Chandler and on field goals of 28 and 49 yards by George Jakowenko. Miami's Garo Yepremian also had a 53-yard field goal.

Chargers nip 49ers

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Mercury Morris scrambled 14 yards around left end to give the San Diego Chargers a 13-7 overtime victory Sunday over the San Francisco 49ers.

San Diego won the toss and elected to receive after the game was tied 7-7 at the end of regulation play. The Chargers then drove 83 yards in nine plays in a drive keyed by a 30-yard pass from Dan Fouts to Charlie Joiner. The catch was Joiner's first and only reception of the day.

San Diego running back Rickey Young gained 40 yards in four carries in the touchdown drive.

NY Giants overpower Lions

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Craig Morton hit former Lion Ed Marshall with two touchdowns passes while an aggressive New York defense held the Lions to a field goal in the third quarter to boost the Giants' lead to 24-10.

Marshall's first catch ignited a 17-point second quarter, which also included a 35-yard field goal by Joe Danolo and a three-yard run by Doug Kotar as the Giants boosted their record to 3-10. Detroit fell to 6-7.

The Giants' defense set up the Danolo field goal with a fumble recovery at the Detroit 19, and blocked a Herman Weaver punt to take possession at the Detroit three to set up Kotar's run. Linebacker Brad Van Pelt led the defensive charge with two interceptions and two of the sacks.

Detroit scored all of its points in the second quarter on a one-yard run by Lawrence Gaines and a 43-yard field goal by Bennie Rileford.

Suns whip Spurs in overtime

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Paul Westphal scored six of 27 points in overtime to lead Phoenix to a 103-98 NBA victory over San Antonio Sunday night.

Westphal stated the Suns to a 99-95 lead with less than two minutes left in the overtime period, but three free throws, one the result of a technical, put the Spurs within 99-98 with 1:31 left. A pair of free throws by each of the Van Arsdale twins, Dick and Tom, in the last 10 seconds clinched the win. Ricky Sobers had 19 points, Alvan Adams 15 and Curtis Perry 13 for the Suns.

George Gervin led San Antonio with 23 points despite playing the last 14 quarters with five fouls before fouling out early in overtime. Billy Paulz had 14 for the Spurs and Larry Kenon, who had 14 the last time the teams met, managed only 15. The game was close all the way and was tied 20 times with the lead changing hands 15 times before the 99-98 deadlock at the end of regulation time. The Suns' biggest spread was seven points, and the Spurs' four.

Bears defeat Seahawks

SEATTLE (UPI) — Bob Avellini broke out of a first-half passing slump to throw for three touchdowns within a three-minute span and Walter Payton ran for 183 yards to break Gale Sayers' team rushing record in leading the Chicago Bears to a 34-7 victory over the Seattle Seahawks.

Avellini, who had minus 11 yards passing in the first half, teamed with wide-receiver James Scott on touchdown passes covering 63 and 30 yards midway in the third period.

The scores moved the Bears from a 7-4 halftime deficit to a 13-point lead and Avellini quickly followed a Seahawks fumble with a 30-yard scoring strike to running back Roland

Harper to make it 24-7. Payton enjoyed the best rushing game of his three-year career as he piled up 183 yards in 27 carries to total 1,341 on 297 rushes for the year. That broke Sayers' 1956 Bear record of 1,231 yards on 299 carries.

Payton's big day kept him nine yards ahead of Buffalo's O.J. Simpson in their battle for the NFL rushing lead.

Browns nip Oilers in cold

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Brian Sipe threw a touchdown pass and Don Cockroft kicked two field goals Sunday as the Cleveland Browns kept their victory hopes alive with a 13-10 playoff over Houston.

The Browns turned the ball over six times in the sub-freezing temperatures and also stalled their offense with numerous penalties, but their "Orange Crush" defense, rated third in the NFL, contained the Oilers.

At the end of a scoreless first period, Ricky Peachey ignited the Browns with a 49-yard punt return to the Oilers' 26. Three plays later, Sipe drilled a 37-yard scoring pass to Paul Warfield, his sixth scoring catch of the season. In the third period Cockroft and Skip Butler exchanged field goals. Cockroft, hitting from 29 yards and Butler from 31 after the Oilers reached the Cleveland 19.

Nuggets trip Jazz

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — David Thompson scored 14 of his 25 points in the third quarter and center Dan Issel added a game-high 29 points, leading the Denver Nuggets to a 117-105 victory Sunday night over the New Orleans Jazz.

The Jazz played without Pete Maravich, the leading NBA scorer, who injured his ankle in a game against Chicago Saturday night. Jazz guard Gail Goodrich, who strained a tendon at the beginning of the season, returned to action after missing 11 games.

Thompson led a 14-2 Nugget burst at the end of the third quarter that pulled them from a four-point deficit to an 84-76 lead at the end of the period. Thompson had eight points, all on long jumpshots, during that streak.

Denver hit 64 per cent of its field goal attempts in the third quarter to gain the lead. In the first 4:26 of the fourth quarter, the Nuggets outscored the Jazz 15-6 to put the game out of reach.

Steelers shut out Tampa Bay

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Rocky Bleier rushed for 118 yards and three touchdowns, and Terry Bradshaw, playing for the first time in three weeks, threw two touchdown passes to Lynn Swann Sunday to lead the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 23-0 victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Rookie quarterback Mike Krzyzewski, who played the first half in place of Bradshaw, also scored on a one-yard keeper. Bradshaw's passes of 35 and 23 yards to Swann were his first touchdown receptions of the season. Swann and Bradshaw have had injury problems all season. Sunday's action was the first for Bradshaw since he sprained a wrist in the first half against Miami Nov. 14.

Bleier, who pushed his season's yardage to 929 yards, becoming only the third Steeler in history to gain more than 900 yards in a season, scored on runs of seven, one, and three yards. The game also marked the first time in which the decorated Vietnam veteran scored more than one TD, and his season yardage total gave him the seventh-highest individual season effort in club history.

KC Kings slip by Celtics

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Brian Taylor scored 21 points and center Sam Lacey had 19 points, 10 rebounds and five assists Sunday night as the Kansas City Kings held on for a 102-96 win over the Boston Celtics.

The Kings also got double-figure scoring from Ron Boone with 19, Bill Roblitz with 18, and Ollie Johnson with 10, in winning their eighth home game in 10 outings.

John Hawlicek came off the bench to lead Boston with 17 points while Steve Kuberski had 14 points and 10 rebounds and Joe White scored 16.

The game saw the lead change hands 14 times in the final six minutes of the second quarter and first 3:30 of the third period. Then Lacey scored with 9:37 left in the third period to send the Kings on their way to eight straight points and a 69-53 lead.

Portland holds off Cleveland

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Clutch play by Larry Steele in the final 90 seconds Sunday night gave the Portland Trail Blazers a hard-earned 99-93 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers in National Basketball Association play.

Despite shooting 4-20 in the final quarter and trailing by five points, the Blazers managed to come back and post their 14th straight win at home this season. It was also Portland's fourth straight victory in five days and its sixth win in seven games.

Steele managed a steal with 1:29 remaining in the game and Portland leading by one, 83-87, that resulted in two free throws by Bill Walton 10 seconds later. With 14 seconds left on the clock, Steele sank two free throws after he was fouled fighting for a rebound.

Cleveland took a 50-49 lead in the see-saw first half, holding the Blazers to just two field goals in the first six minutes of the second period. Bob Smith hit 7-10 from the floor in the half to aid the Cavaliers. But in the third quarter, Portland's defense held Cleveland scoreless for five minutes and Portland charged back from a "three" point deficit, 62-59, to end 11 point lead, 73-62.

Masters tennis under way

HOUSTON (UPI) — Guillermo Vilas won a first-set tiebreaker with two stinging aces to take the first set, but a furious comeback by Raul Ramirez Sunday to win his opening match of the $130,000 Grand Prix Masters Tennis Tournament, 7-6, 7-5.

American Harold Solomon played Brian Gottfried and Eddie Dibbs played Spain's Manuel Orantes in other first-round matches later in the day.

The Vilas-Ramirez match ended on a controversial point when a linesman called Ramirez' passing shot "good" and tournament judge Frank Hammond overruled the linesman.

Ramirez, stunned because he had failed for the seventh straight time to beat Vilas, stood for several minutes on the court. A brief argument with Hammond proved fruitless.

Vilas, the only returning Masters champion, in the eighth round, said the controversial match-point definitely was wide.

According to the unusual round-robin format of the Masters, Ramirez less does not knock him out of the competition. He returns after a Monday layoff to play Solomon and Gottfried on successive days.

Trailing five games to four in the final set, Vilas came back to win the final three games.

He beat Ramirez 4-6 in the tenth game, used Ramirez's backhand and Ramirez' first double fault to win the Vilas said he thought he had lost the first set tiebreaker when Ramirez led five points to four. But Ramirez stroked a wide forehand and Vilas hit a top-spin backhand passing shot to take the lead. Vilas then won it after a flubbed forehand by smashing an overhead and slamming a forehand passing shot.
